Wed Sept 5 - 1912
Mon.

It is now over three months since we got back to Dreyfus and not a word have I written. It took me almost two months to get over the effects of tropical climates & perpetual feverings - my health was "all a piece" & the Dreyfus case - a war of honor & reputation, & Dreyfus & honor, followed me everywhere. Now I am slight again & a few weeks more.

I am sitting now in the early morning of my bed doing at the Trade Union Congress. Not substantially different from the Congress of three years
- twenty years gone by. The extreme left of today were of the State Socialists are now in the Dreyfus against the far left - the Socialists. The bulk of the representatives showing an urge to some ~~of~~ solid steps for the they have always been, many occupied with their own work & their personal beliefs, carrying a plain good humored & somewhat contemplative interest in this or that "new book" - very much as the city man buys the new tops that are sold on the market or as a corporation listens to the ~~new~~ pleasure of a new preacher.
That - there is a change. The Trade Unions have got the national business they will find a few stupid solid heads - of course I know 20 years & return - but then it is official the substance of these political issues.

Now I think the idea of rationalising that - Public Service is just empty out of the Law of Dreams. But when the Spirits come in - the product of the I believe - a point that - actually happens when duration in nation life, especially in regard the unexamined engaged - to industry.

The Spectator on Oct 14

Oct 11th -

I wrote off 2 heavy pieces the description of the Congress 2 now it has passed out of my mind.

Some or returned to London I have been in a whirl of work: turning the corner into my responsibilities with ^{at present} it is a fine time up: then is the I.L.P. Febur campaign - War effort - Peking - the theory of the National Movement under out in detail - there are one course of lectures on the Control of Industry, prepared with a eravant outside - There is the new Febur Inquiry into the Control of Industry & the starting of a Febur Research Department. I am then actively Sunday has been helping me by Council & drafting by using his & taking his part in the speaking. Meanwhile he has been working what help from me in finishing of the work on Board the 1-the numerous projects of our ^{improvement} work. It is annoying not to be able to complete that big task of Historical Research to do or do so much time & money. But there seems to be a clear call for leadership in the labor & Socialist movement has proved itself - in an all the best of friends. The Study of the 720, 4 Feb 1907 is quite a success & is being carried off - & which brings you to Lahn, ^{Scandinavia} ^{with the family} movement. What at first - among me that is that there is no kind of connection between ^{Lahn} M. P. & to Lahn Court - & 4 Lahn to P. See to the study of drifting to Pindition. ^{M. P.} ^{Scandinavia} has also the a Scandinavian, 15 74 - number have been Scandinavian, Sweden, contributed & Lahn is in it. There is not the constant relationship between the Lahn members ~~between them~~ M. P., Lahn 15 & 15 720, Lahn 12 between them a connection. We have at present - no relationship the 720 Lahn as the Co. partners a to any but the 720 Lahn

 - 15 Scotch Lahn throughout the county.

The condition of things certainly would itself to opinion - all of Lahn members see to me opinion - to us to me ceases of Lahn who has become a 720 movement - freedom of nothing is particular.
 I suppose to my thing is to be steadily a point on which too much considering what it will be the result.

December 15th Clifton St. V. M. K. H. H. H.

Down here considering the Bristol Conference & Prelim meeting on the subject - Paris, & an afternoon P.M. on Synicalism; a Free Church Council, ^{Meeting} Lady of North on War against Paris. I came down very tired but ~~the~~ the isolation from work in this present spirit which I had been contemplating the speaking.
The conference was ~~not~~ successful - about 150 delegates of Trade Unions etc.
The majority of these men were silent
- they passed the resolutions, listening very attentively to all that was said - whether they really understood the issues or were only a part of the resolutions I do not know. There are ~~many~~ currents with each nation & then from friends - fear that a particular thing or factory will be shut up by an increased wage, fear that a striking of him will be a lesser wage, interest in the report of the ordinary man to govern himself, real administration for the 'Do' because he is "Do" firms feelings that anyone a member of the leading body of voting, they, a debate - which should at once not ~~force~~ give them sufficient determination to speak a vote against resolutions at subsequent meetings prevents them from joining in any vigorous action in behalf of the thing. In Bristol there is a Liberator - felt to be a most-important case - a most of the day's work I believe liberty - they showed no approval of almost the Liberal Government - a real approval of the Insurance Act, the they passed the resolutions for the Dublin agreement. There were a host of extreme Socialists & Socialists who wanted to take on the substitutes, the 'ordinary' " ~~political~~ 'dis-consums-levitating resolutions' ~~the~~ I regard a Socialist resolution for the end of the agenda as a compromise - to show compromise vote for it! Having allowed to vote Nationalism to Socialism with regard of the Socialists.

Date of the conference is also at the of the P.S.A. there were a few Socialists. Speaking has taken the Place of the old fashion 'Adventure Society'.

 The angry young man, with growing class, a dyspeptic complexion, in his days, tongue runs away with him two months inexperienced middle class idealist - the servant man of Edward Carpenter has caught the ideal of the Specialist community as a new & more exciting Utopia. But the T.U. system is the Labour man of the Municipal Council Specialism appears a practical dream

 - hardly worth considering. So far as we can see Specialism will be a discipline from it to B.S.P. - at all details some I.L.P. hands - a certain number of important factors - it will add to the indifference to the Labour Party - but it will have practically no effect on the larger currents of the Labour movement.

to contribute the long series of columns on "What is Socialism" - or have also to help Shank to get other contributors & to "make

Second we have to bring off the English - in the context of history & context for a big Report - my last contribution to first instance as a sufficient to the Sturmons.

I don't feel anxious about the seemingly popular task - as one will be able to see a July the method is based on a way of educating an young people. Truly I have to take my share of organizing the next - I.L.P. & Fellow Companies
- a difficult business, as the L.L.P. are stupid suspicious & timid & it has to work with them. There are lectures to be given & speeches to be made at Cambridge, Edinburgh, & Glasgow to summarize their activities & compare & contrast to be prepared for next autumn. Out of them is my views left - we have to embrace coming out on 18th Century Union on local ground. A formal program expectations the end not to be fulfilled. I supposed that that was what the Secretaries were then for - the "general expectations" which did not ought to be fulfilled. Henderson tried to bully - & talked about "irresponsible expectations". To which I had to reply that we did not want to intrude ourselves but in some ways it would be for us since a much more pleasant to have an ally & Richard - Hunt & Lord Henry Bantock to introduce us - to 10 minutes rule - of the latter kind found it inconvenient to accept them ~~for~~ this was was "I hope it has not come to that - W. Hill"

- Henderson finally replied in part & different - tone. "I hope ^{not} indeed; the cells are really Lord Bantock - "but is why we have come "to ask you to hang them in". I returned a phrase - & we sat to discuss amicably.
 I was surprised by a certain bitter hostility on Snowden's part - he is getting sore.
 I made one the most cordial - & remarked that it would be best to "hang" all our this miscellaneous 7.6. cells about 2 curtains & 2 hours etc -

The interview ends with a proposal of Hudson that we should have a regular meeting for the discussion of Policy between the Standing Committee to P.C. & the Labor Party & the Labor M.P. & propose that they would consider introducing all or some of the bills.

They are not a strong lot of men & are plainly enemies of the atmosphere of the House, & McDonald's estate but over cautious & suspicious leadership - suspicious of all the reform work he is supposed to believe in.
If we could see into hundreds more I don't believe it differs seriously from the John Dams.

But then the Labor Party is not it is it my instinct that we have to work with - a Pox thing but - Oh dear!

Jan 18th Edinburgh. There for 4 meetings is £8 hours travelling done & the night met for played a Sunday night. In the last part of the I have been examining copies of the files of circulation for the States - We start with the machinery of the D.C.
& Labor Party & upon this we are building up a card catalogue of 20 or 25 possible

Satisfaction in newspaper. To all our best-people we are sending out - personal letters handwritten or typewritten per me - to the best well known people we are sending a copy of manuscript letter ~~sent~~ ~~to~~ ~~of~~ ~~some~~ ~~of~~ ~~us~~
 - W. J. A. S. is contributing one (2) Talians do in not number per h.c.

We have secured already some 150 foreign subscribers - I do not doubt getting 1000
 - after that the return may dry up a certain
 - it is impossible to say. But we will not not do then - I mean to paper pay or next to it - 5000 Postal Subscribers 2 sales.

We had from Chicago the opinion of the "Nation Group" who regard to our chances of success. They put the lowest ~~est~~ sales at 2000 the paper can keep alive at.
 3000 - 15 maximum but we might get 4-6 success, 5000. That is enough to circulate 4 1/2 halves - something like 3-5 times. This cannot be done unless we attract a good ^{number} ~~number~~ of readers. f.a.s. by that is paid for ⁵⁰⁰⁰ ~~5000~~ 1/2 weeks for 2 or 300, - Spain (4 months) for 100 making up 1000 to 1500.

The paper that we shall turn out, will be one idea - "to Wells and know the April 8th

Our "Promoting" is off and on started into about 2500 subscribers - a real plan total. But the work commenced ~~with~~ has pretty well broke down. We are now had at work using our articles in locations - S.H. is looking for a typical article and we are reviewing works that are my fancy. F.A.S. ~~has~~ has surprised us by refusing to sign any article but - said we should go to first number!
- apparently means to write regularly. Two of specialty features: 1) Trade orders and goods - a law and one here of "Necessities" open to first number (to be a law. 15) But - way we is doing here could best - our operations runs high. The first number will be brilliant, but if can't be good

Research for Control of Industry etc is rather in my mind & somehow I feel that it is foolish for me to start it. We shall get our Report - it is not, but it will mean a great deal to us. The Act will not become just by the name of Research Department - I have not the strength to run it; there is no one else to take over the work of doing it but ourselves. That whole plan will not come off. What may happen is the development of a semi-research Department in connection with the Statesman.

Sudley is enjoying his work. Once again he writes to me. He is a far more accomplished journalist than I am & he is the "reputed" father of the paper - I suppose you to read quite. He likes Shakespeare & works well with him & he is going to enjoy especially himself. on all the formal visits & so on.

May 25th

I find it increasingly difficult to get the time or the energy to visit my diary - the last sketches almost lost etc. He states that 2450 paid subs. - a brilliant achievement - when adding ~~to the~~ another 200 some shortly. How many of these will be kept for the theory you defend and how many will be taken to paper. There are all sorts of criticisms - that the paper is dull, that there is not enough information, that it is really brilliant writing! That the formal errors are few but the technical "20" that it belongs to & excellent but - the formal errors not sufficiently constructed - some say the first number was further than others but it looks a shade inferior.

One difficulty is the f.B.S. - a difficulty which is always present. He won't make one by our sign etc. and some of the notes which include he sends in are hoping out of keeping with our time - our meeting. And to make the compiler in the ^{paper} letters to The Review - messenger of course ^{to} catch him. However we have got to go to a date to paper next volume. Sketch is turning out - a few Cassius know - a soft to!

not a distinguished man. What he lacks is magnificence & ease of manner - in some ways he is too deeply sincere. J.A.S.'s letter from London is interesting.

But Salway & I tho' we are fully in an ing heart with & realizing all our other ambitions we are not half anxious about it.
We have ample funds for two years & if the paper is not established by that time we shall drop it & return to our historical pursuits.
We shall have had our propaganda ~~work~~ campaign - our work will not have been wasted.

J.A.S. has in fact injured the head of the movement by his connections with it: we have had all the disadvantages of his eccentric & inconsiderate staff & none of the advantages of his name. Lots of people will think our whole credit - that they know the his & think the same article of his account even in instances of the Joint Regency his enthusiasm as in all the details of his arrangements he has been grossly inconsiderate:

referring to let Sharp know whether or not he can bring to visit & that he can stay in Penn - when Sharp will find in his letter 2 or three columns from Penn on very immensely subject. Now Sharp has read up his own bit of f.B.S. writing on his present terms - announcing a freedom consultations or in letters about his treatment by actual person who succeeded because by referring to get evidence of is Sharp is the f.B.S. home very appears - & it is his home that helps respect his mind! I believe we shall pass through - but I - have added to an initial difficulties & has proved to me let f.B.S. is no longer a possible colleague. What we have now got to do, is to refer to present with him: but to do without him. He may become more confident if he is left, alone.

 He means to be kind, but he is spirit don't, in fact, not justify itself either as character or intelligence, and it remains to be seen whether it will hold the Tradition.

 The calm & serene movement is in a state of disruption: there is some wild speaking & suspicion that there has been before a less enthusiasm. As a matter of fact the Julian Saint is the ^{subject} of some part here to draw its membership & its name being to test you & there is no doubt about it - but it should be far stronger now if we had kept words, free for to date Prof.

Charles Shaw asked me to come & see her one afternoon last week. She has been ill, off work, even since we returned from India & she was lying in bed - sofa looking unusually ~~and~~ gentle & attractive.
 She told me in a ~~simple~~ singularly significant & simple way that F.D.S. had fallen - like Mrs W. Py.

When he was with us at - Derby Road last - November he talked to me about ^{W. P. P.} ~~W. P. P.~~ & LTD me & LTD - a stupid thing about her - her silly incident remarks about Charlotte & all her fact-relations as into has had, child, & the stage. I paid very little attention to it - one is so accustomed to F.B.S.'s Vanity & Egotism etc. & one used to be accustomed to the Vanity & Egotism leading him into rather cruel philandering into all sorts of odd families. But I certainly thought he had outgrown all this business, tho' I was alarmed at his sort of letter as a symptom of a sort of degeneration in his thinkings, I was not yet prepared for a real emotional disturbance on ~~his part~~. I gather quite from Charlotte & also (as far I know) from various letters hints from other people, that he has some scandal about it - at any rate W. P. P. is boasting of her conquest! From what I remember of F.B.S.'s chatter about W. P. P., found it increasingly difficult to discuss with him - he no longer tries to meet another person's points - he merely states & all his talk revolves round persons & not round ideas. In political theory he is inclining towards Chesterton & the propaganda of liberal & revolt. Now & again he has a brilliant flash of illuminating thought - but it is rare before one has had time to fit it in with the rest of his ~~philosophy~~ ^{personally changing} philosophy of conduct.

All the same I ~~think~~ am inclined to think that Charlotte will win, & that they will not be permanently separated. If they are permanently estranged, we shall see little more of him. Our separateness will be with Charlotte, & he will know it & however complacent or remain silent, he will feel our steady disapproval & we can be reminded of it by our presence. He is I think finding an effort to keep in with us - but he is quite clearly bored by our way of what we talk!

Our friends drift apart. We sometimes see Graham, & I am more friendly with Andy than we were before - but there is no common work & our meetings are rare.
 The same is true of Sydney & Oliver -

Sept-28th Zuni Fair Deputy Hauls.

We spent two extremely weeks at the Zuni Summer school at the Dolores. The large camp with a small dining house - the promenade provided but - seemingly needs the shame of "ghosts" - the standing features of the Zuni School were dignified & sobered by the very definite purpose of the two conferences - that of the Insured Department & that of the Joint Council of Zuni & L.D.P. The first - that was the first conference the company was $\frac{3}{4}$ male instead of being $\frac{2}{3}$ female as is usually the case - but these males were specially selected for knowledge of a subject - the subjects discussed made all the difference to the work which is to be proceeding.

The six days I sat - to chair about 5 hours a day - reporting the discussions of the meeting called by the Insured Department. All the "conferences" were I suppose like the two conferences - a light was certainly evoked & distilled. The following week was more disputes - the h. a. c. & the L.D.P. agencies being either busy with their own affairs or inclined to "holidaying". Out of some of purposes of bringing us together. Both conferences were voted & have been in the reports.

Welcome here - bringing accounts especially ?
 - 2 out of the way as you & others are ? leaving my normal time. Sleepless, indigestion, a feeling of both mental & muscular fatigue has made me lethargic since - it looks as though I had - under the stress of such burden on Sunday I was to report on "home in a Socialist".
 All I have been able to do has been some of the planning out of the report - a sort of 2 weeks had out of sorting to material more useful heads. But I am sure satisfied that saying is going to turn out significant & will help find the Lenin Song. Meanwhile we are starting another Committee as to working for the Income Act - a beautiful business finally which has to be reported some year hence as "The Spirit of Income Tax & Method of Provision" - more especially with the emphasis of the Socialist State. Sidney is peacefully happy & his day with a much younger & stronger than I am. I got entangled in town work here I can do - I feel just at present that my energy is declining & my life is drawing to its close.
 However, my extraordinary happiness together with peace as we go to do each day what we are called upon to do - is so far as our lives stretch

But retirement seem to me attractive!

But I think the scientific method is one of our superstitions. There is only one really scientific method: the method of trial & error. When the scientific people admit that this is really their method, and the religious people admit that it is also the method of the life force, the "conflict between religion & science" goes on the dust heap. Both sides made the same connected mistake. They would have it that science could not err and that God could not err. That position has been ground to powder by the fact that both powers err all the time, and only find the right way after trying all possible wrong ones. The life force is as great a blunderer as Lord George - or Robert Owen. G.B.S.

 added to our party) in Cornwall - Devon. It has been a delightful & luxurious holiday - our first intention of transferring road to coast with ~~the~~ maps etc being turned ^{into} ~~into~~ long walks - 10 or 12 miles a day - & between motoring from one first class hotel to another.
 One old friend & brilliant "connoisseur" is just the

 to her but he clearly finds his real friends with his professional friends & juster demands better company.
 He is self-complacent - feels himself to be one of the best - well known as a deeply cultivated etc. but being regarded seriously as a thinker & a reformer.
 He is getting rapidly old physically, and impatient & somewhat dictatorial intellectually - & he suffers from restlessness. We talked over intended tours to him, done for many years - he is interested in the July 6th

Sara or came back to DSW or have been stopping along with the Federal Bureau Dpt Supervisor & Reports & casual jobs for the Platform. It takes me at least a week to write the Report for the Federal Women Group Supplement - Women: history - another 3 or 4 days to write a article on "Vicious Women & Social Revolution". ~~But~~ I have had a week's working in domestic (Sutton) with attention of the Public Party conference before is. The rest of my time & energies have been spent on the Casemans Corporation Report.
And had to be enclosed regarding a 2000 stuff that is used for Sunday's final Drafting.
Meanwhile Sunday has been checked in to business Supplement - & then that is finished or shall turn was full free to conflict to Control of Industry Report. The next to next an edict to the Habit-Journal was given the first of lecture on the relation of Science & Religion but # a week I should have very enjoyed - but other things seem more pressing at that time.

 Also I want a part-time in the country understood of the immense personal calls on our attention.

The Dublin Prof Conference was a personal triumph to J.R. headmaster. The first day of criticism - in which Sanson took to being part - was steam rolled by G. D. McAlpine. The then was much discontent among the P.R. Delegates, but the side phrasings of Morris & Tector's Don't want to leave the P.R. to our losses for a 12 dollar font - a Mac Donnell knows it.
 The other big controversy - Proposed Representation - (what - some - for a Dublin Prof Conference to speed up every - or!) was also dominated by ^{the special interests of} the head heads.
 They are not ~~and~~ Masses in small way they would have been of being mixed up with spiritual & non-learn. As certain headmaster with his romantic appeal, charming voice, - clear handwriting ^{deliberate phrases} & more like a writer other for in the boardroom and other
 - criticized orthodox who served his in the

- expectations. We shall probably lose one half of these & start the ^{second} year of the Museum's life with 1500 to 2000 annual subscribers if we shall have about 1000 willing & you (or I) can ^{other} sales are 2000 or more - that would mean a circulation of 4000 as a very honest start - and our warrant a very decided effort - to keep the paper & circulation. If we do that had in last 2000 of our postal subscribers to prospect will be dark - if not better.

There is a suggestion to get S.B.S. to give us an endorsement - ^{help to} "Call" as our subscribers another year. But that is not my suggestion I am not sure of the policy of it - and of the time & consent of you to have it successful as a device. Some of letters or shall have to try in a circulation among persons who may like to paper & give support of other standpoint - to read of what - imitation. A certain number of papers will be collected by its supporters - I think here or less - find a quite new & former attraction - but a very expensive one done & done on a big scale. The one chief advantage of this mastering is that it is on side a sweeping scale but it must, if it is an best, lead to social readjustments - change in the direction of non state capitalism & an increasing state responsibility.

 a take joint action. Meanwhile a small committee of the D.S.F. Secretaries are to promote a certain number of meetings up & down the country. There is of course great reluctance on the part of the extremists of the D.S.F. to join the Labour Party - but the Labor Party - a stable position - not so open as was - among the more conservative T.D.P. & Labor Party men to have anything to do with the D.S.F.
 How far you can get to February, the date when we had, like done - The meeting & preceding character of the Feb. 22 being held (to announce) the date, the ~~importance~~ of the D.S.F. Secretaries chose Sunday as chosen for the original meeting & me as Chairman of the Preliminary Committee. ~~What makes~~

What may make Socialist-Union more possible is the election of W. Jordan to the Gen Secy of the Feb. 22. For ^{some time} ~~long~~ time L.B.S.F. has been getting an interest: he is going rapidly, he is becoming more & more "liberal" & about "Labor Party" - his views - he is wholly unopposed conduct revolutionary services under the eyes of the Bureau Department. His wife is a lady, talented & is living under the C.A. - Bureau set - so her contacts of his somewhat - information of many men his connections are with the rebels. He is trusted & liked by all sections of the Cuban Society. It is possible some suspect him of being too much under the intellectual influence of the Whites.

One man's anxiety has to be financial position for the Stetsons & one man work is preparing to report of the Cuban Bureau Department. We have used up the larger half of the capital in the or states in the U.S.
 & unless we can pull up a larger amount before a larger circulation we sit another heavy loss from the funds - we cannot go on. The man Felix told me - Arthur Shea wholly volunteered another $5000 & J.D. Snow was almost compelled to follow suit. His main financial safety for his company you & if a few more men money might be forthcoming. But we may lose the support from our regular postal subscribers

- as of the present ^{primary} it will be a long time before we can replace them of the slow process of annual increment. In another month we shall know our fate!

In one way our plans have turned out better than we expected. When I stated to the Finance Research Dept - I do not believe that we be extraordinary useful in providing support for the Stations. In fact - it seems that the only chance of success lies in the Stations lies embedded in primary support.

^{if it survives} it will become primary as the way of the world - and incidentally a journal which was to be. Fortunately S.A.S. has taken a sudden fancy to Research as the "Primary support for the Finance Dept" at the members meeting he supported the resolution now of the new vehicle - Gillespie's notion of D. Cole insisting that Research was the one and only way of the F.S. against Sidgwick's amendment - but it was one of the primary to drive. The situation is certainly humorous - it looks like we have certainly not been taken down in a way of the world - yet in find ourselves differentiating any functional instances but all other ~~advice~~ is ~~not~~ written. I mean that the ~~last~~ part of which an ~~of~~ is not Research itself, but a new form of propaganda, ~~and~~ a new Doctrine and ~~the~~ belief. ~~Themselves~~ to be electronic ^{with the papers} ~~and~~ to Control of humanity.

Now what I want ~~to~~ ^{bring the way} to connect to the Research Dept - into the International Scientific movement - ^{this} being them on all the problems let content to Science, the finer intellects ^{of} ~~our~~ ^{our} ~~form~~ Dajin & Dutch countries. We must have an international program & a broad literature & the ~~Research~~ Dept. will be the centre. But do it to do the heavy & strike the brain and intellects.
The young men talk, but they do not get through much work - as they are very functional & are ideal. Mellin is not a alteration Israeli security - & the rest of.
It is I do not see the other career is open to him but to continue security for to Research Dept. However he is alive - and is something - he producing but of not-light.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN : CHARACTER AND CIRCUMSTANCE

THE death of a great personage has brought us the usual torrent of special memoirs and articles, some extravagantly laudatory, others subtly depreciatory. But casting aside what is superfluous or insufficient, we gather a certain consensus of opinion. Joseph Chamberlain is accepted as perhaps the most potent "leader of men" of his generation. What is not conceded to him with equal unanimity is the faculty of statesmanship. It is worth our while to consider the truth of this verdict.

Judged by the extent of his sway over men's minds, and by the intensity of the devotion which he roused in his followers, Chamberlain stands out as greater than either Gladstone or Beaconsfield—his only peers in the nineteenth century. He succeeded, in the first decade of his political life between 1875 and 1885, in becoming the dominant influence in the Radical Party. He was the acknowledged chief of the party machine, which, in fact, he had himself created; and in the autumn of 1885 he was attracting even larger and more enthusiastic audiences than his great chief. When a few months later he broke with Gladstone in a way most disadvantageous to himself, and had to ally himself with what seemed to be the party of reaction, he succeeded in detaching sufficient members of his old party to throw the Liberals out of office, and to keep them in the desert for all but three years out of the next twenty. But he did more than this. Unlike Gladstone, he retained undiminished, and even intensified, the loyalty of the electorate which he knew best—a loyalty which radiated from his own constituency to at least a score of others in the neighbouring counties. When, at last, he accepted the position of one of the leaders of the Unionist Party, his pre-eminence in attracting followers was equally convincing. Lord Salisbury's administration was in home affairs essentially that of a Whig Government, with strong individualist tendencies and a desire to leave the social order much as it had been handed down by a succession of landlords and capitalists. No one could accuse Lord Salisbury himself, or his successor in the Premiership—Mr. Arthur Balfour—of any fervour for the extension of the British Empire, or any desire to dominate in the councils of the world. Mr. Chamberlain changed all this. He insisted on the Conservative Government imposing free schools on a reluctant party and embarking on social reform. He compelled them to turn away from Lord Salisbury's somewhat cynical desire for peace in his own time, and to accept a policy of exuberant aggression. But his greatest personal triumph lay in forcing upon the Conservative Party a policy which would have been hateful to Lord Salisbury, and which was certainly not sympathetic to his successor—the re-embodiment of Protection as "Tariff Reform." No one who had not a superlative gift for leadership—that is, for compelling men to follow him—could have reversed, within one of the great political parties, the whole traditional conception of British fiscal policy, of which the wisdom had been for two generations almost universally taken for granted.

When we pass from the leadership of men to statesmanship—that is to say, to the peculiar faculty of reconstructing the constitution and working of the social order—the verdict of posterity will, we think, be adverse to Chamberlain's claim to a premier position. During his terms of office, first in Gladstone's Cabinet and then in Lord Salisbury's and Mr. Balfour's, he placed upon the Statute Book no law of considerable importance. His well-drafted Bankruptcy and Patent Acts of 1883–1884 were prudent modifications of the existing law almost technical in their character, but at least as essential for important Government officials concerned with the direction of labour as knowledge of what is and what is not "good form" in their own class.

But the Woolwich strike illustrates in yet another way the need for the education of the governing classes in the social conceptions which arise inevitably out of the economic position of the working-classes. Mr. Entwhistle was summarily dismissed—not merely suspended—by Sir Frederick Donaldson. There was no suggestion that he was entitled to have the conflict between the disinterested dictates of his conscience and Sir Frederick Donaldson's conception of disciplinary necessity adjudged by any tribunal. Sir Frederick Donaldson assumed, as a matter of course, that a manual employee of the Government must be liable to the complete deprivation of his means of livelihood at the discretion of his superior officer for an alleged offence against discipline. Twelve thousand of Mr. Entwhistle's fellow-employees thought otherwise, and in consequence Mr. Entwhistle has had to be unconditionally reinstated. What has happened once may easily happen again, if the circumstances are not altered; and the complete victory of the men, as regards Mr. Entwhistle's reinstatement, is a direct invitation to the employees of every Government and municipal undertaking to adopt similar measures whenever a disciplinary dismissal, which is disapproved by the workers as a whole, occurs. It is, therefore, the business of the Government not merely to enquire into the circumstances which justify their trade unionist employees in refusing to be associated with the work of blacklegs; they have also to discover how their manual workers may obtain a reasonable security of tenure which is on the one hand consistent with efficiency and on the other gives them the protection of a quasi-judicial procedure against the loss of their means of livelihood. The problem is less difficult than many others which have been solved in the sphere of social organisation. The growing determination of the workers to manifest their solidarity by resisting in every possible way an injury to a single member of their class makes it incumbent upon the Government to deal with it in the interests of industrial peace as well as in those of social justice.

THE GREAT POWERS AS FILIBUSTERS

FALSTAFF: "I have led my rascals where they are peppered." King Henry IV., Part I.

IN the interests, one supposes, of distracted diplomacy the newspapers of this country have turned their limelight off Albania. For news of the tragic-comedy there we have lately had to rely almost entirely upon Rome and Vienna, anything but safe sources. Still, a little trustworthy news leaks through, enough to show us that the affairs of the Prince of Wied are going from bad to worse. Moreover, there has been light of a most curious kind from a most unexpected quarter. The American Minister at Athens, Mr. Williams, after paying Albania a surprise visit, has burst upon horrified officialdom with an account of his impressions, which for absolute frankness far surpasses anything in the way of blazing indiscretion which diplomacy has had to stomach even from America. T they showed no originality, and they raised no important social or economic issues. He encouraged and focused the agitation for Old Age Pensions, which had been initiated by the Socialists and by Mr. Charles Booth, but he failed to devise any workable scheme, or even to bring the subject effectively before Parliament. Though he had been himself an able and vigorous municipal administrator, he introduced no improvement in the constitution of Local Government, nor did he succeed in extending its functions. His famous "unauthorised programme" of "free land, free church, and free labour" (we forget what was meant by "free labour"—was it anti-Trade Unionism?) was never fulfilled; and the fourth item, "free schools," was granted without the secularisation which had been, in his early years, its main attraction to him. Did he succeed in reorganising or reconstituting the British Empire? Valuable as may have been his regeneration of the Colonial Office, we doubt whether history will answer in the affirmative. Finally, Tariff Reform, the cause to which he devoted the greatest labour and enthusiasm of his life, and which he identified with his own reputation in the closest and most intimate way, has kept the political party that adopted it out of office for ten years, and is now being almost openly dropped by the new generation of Conservatives. There may, of course, be surprises in store for us; but recent events on the Continent and in the United States do not point to any new life for Protectionist theory.

What were the qualities of intellect and character, what were the circumstances, what was the environment, which account for Chamberlain's great successes and his no less great failures? All his critics are agreed that he had concentration and persistence of purpose, a superlative will power and capacity for work, a keen intelligence, a magnetic charm of voice, and an extraordinary aptitude for incisive expression. But the peculiar quality of character which was at once his greatest asset, and his greatest defect, was the intensely personal view that he took of all the relations of life. He gave personal devotion, and he insisted on personal subordination. This insistence on the personal tie accounts for the almost extravagant devotion felt towards him by his family and his clan, extending in widening circles to the vast majority of the inhabitants of Birmingham and its neighbourhood. How proud they were of him! No observer of one of those packed and breathless meetings in the Town Hall, when he addressed his constituents, could fail to see that the relationship between him and them was far more than that between a religious leader and his pious flock than that between a political representative and a political electorate. It was this attribute in his character that explains what Lord Morley has called his genius for friendship—a steadfastness and a loyalty which survived personal disaster and political disagreement. And it was this intensity of personal service and personal claim that made him the recognised idol first of one party and then of the other. Perhaps, too, it is in this same emphasis on personal consideration—his keenness of sympathy for the particular persons, parties, and races with which he was connected—that we may find the main grounds for his adherence to certain narrow types of social reform and of foreign policy. His advocacy of "three acres and a cow," and even his sweeping away of the slums of Birmingham, were inspired by a big-hearted pity for the individual agricultural labourer and the individual victims of insanitation and overcrowding, whom he had seen. A good deal of his Imperialism, and of his desire to add new territories to the Empire, was based on a very human sympathy for the pioneer Englishman, and a desire that his fellow-countrymen should succeed in their enterprises. Finally, we see in his acceptance of the economics of Protection the desire to protect the individual craftsman or the individual employer against what appeared to be obvious and blatant "unfair" foreign competition; and in his propaganda of "Imperial Preference" characteristic appreciation of the additional strength which might be given to the sentiment of Empire by adding a concrete relationship of buying and selling between fellow-countrymen, with the feeling that they were deliberately "preferring" each other to the unknown foreigner.

But this predominantly personal view of human relationships, this devotion to, and this equally insistent claim on, the person, party, or race with which he was associated, had its weak side, and was not balanced by qualities which would have corrected or supplemented it. Joseph Chamberlain never understood a general principle, either of thought or of action. He had no instinct for abstract freedom or equity; he had no respect for logical reasoning or even for accuracy in the ascertainment of facts. Hence, whenever the immediate, concrete or easily observed interests of particular persons, particular classes, or particular races clashed with a moral ideal, conflicted with the conclusion of a process of reasoning, or were inconsistent with the results of investigation, he resolutely refused to subordinate the smaller truth or expediency which he saw so vividly to the larger one that he was unable to divine. It was this quality in him which has induced some of his hardest critics to call him vulgar-minded, materialist, unscrupulous, or short-sighted. It was this quality in him that prevented him from realising the hidden facts of social life, from inferring the trend of social development. It was this narrowness of vision which made him ignore both the Co-operative and Trade Union movements of his own country, now spreading rapidly throughout the world, with their insistence, on the one hand, on a low level of prices, and, on the other, on maintaining inviolate a minimum standard of life. It was this inability to follow a complicated chain of reasoning that hid from him the implications of international trade, and all the possibilities of industrial democracy. Above all, it was this incapacity to sympathise with conditions of life personally unknown to him that accounted for the persistent and obdurate hostility of this warm-hearted Radical to the worldwide movements of sex, class, and race emancipation.

It so happened that Chamberlain's circumstances, from youth upwards, intensified his natural defects, and militated against his success as a statesman. He left London as a youth, to spend his working life in that part of England which is most backward in its industrial organisation. The "Black Country," for all its tall chimneys, is still the home of the small industry; the paradise of the independent craftsman or small master, intent on profit-making, who seeks always to be protected against more efficient or more democratic types of organisation. The huge industrial agglomerations, the great Co-operative movement, the nationally organised Trade Unions which have secured a firm hold in the Clyde Valley, and in the mining and manufacturing districts of Northumberland, Durham, Lancashire, and Yorkshire, and which are rearing up a powerful industrial democracy, have always been relatively weak and ineffective in Birmingham and the surrounding towns. What municipal enterprise there has been in that city must be credited, not to the citizens of Birmingham, but almost entirely to Chamberlain, his friends and his connections. It is, indeed, perhaps not too fanciful to suggest that if Chamberlain had gone to Manchester instead of to Birmingham, the course of his politics, and with him the politics of Great Britain for the past thirty years, would have been dramatically different.

It may be said, too, that Chamberlain was singularly unfortunate in the two political leaders to whom he was nominally subordinate. Gladstone always felt himself to be dominated by moral impulses; he was an adept at ethical phrases, an enthusiast for abstract freedom as exemplified in the political emancipation of subject races outside the British Empire, and in those strange unrealities, freedom of contract and freedom of competition, within the United Kingdom. From first to last—from Chamberlain's defiance of Gladstone's authority in 1878-9 to Gladstone's calculated insult in 1886 (when Chamberlain was given an office of no political importance and was excluded from the Cabinet Committee which decided on the Home Rule Bill)—these two men had the misfortune to dislike and distrust each other. With Mr. Balfour it was different. Here the political comradeship began on terms of equality, and under the pressure of a common patriotism; and we are told that it was accompanied by real personal friendship. But in spite of these advantageous circumstances, the second partnership was scarcely more fortunate than the first. The two minds were incompatible. Unreasoning fervour and philosophic scepticism; unswerving pugnacity and sensitive courtesy; restless innovation and complacent acceptance of the established order; a passionate insistence on predominance, whether of one's own party or of one's own race, and a detached consideration of the principles upon which human life ought to be based, more especially in its mystical relation to the Universe, are not qualities, however admirable in themselves, that can be advantageously combined in the joint leadership of a great political party. One or other of these distinguished men might have led the Unionists through critical times into one or other form of security or success; coupled together, they led their party into the wilderness, a result no happier than the outcome of the analogous ill-mating of Chamberlain with Gladstone.

THE FUTURISTS

IT is to be hoped that the appearance of the first number of Blast will put an end to the Futurist movement in England. One can forgive a new movement for anything except being tedious: Blast is as tedious as an imitation of George Robey by a curate without a sense of humour. It may be argued that Blast does not represent Futurism, but Vorticism, and that to make of the pages of Blast a winding-sheet in which to wrap up Futurism for burial is to do an indignity to a genuine and living artistic movement. But, after all, what is Vorticism but Futurism in an English disguise—Futurism, we might call it, bottled in England, and bottled badly? We have only to compare the pictures of the Vorticists shown some time ago at the Goupil with the pictures of the Italian Futurists which are being shown just now at the Doré to see that the two groups differ from each other not in their aims, but in their degrees of competence. No one going through the gallery of Italian paintings and sculpture could fail to see that Boccioni, with all his freakishness, his hideousness, his discordant introduction of real hair, glass eyes, and so forth into his statuary, is an artist powerful both in imagination and in technique. His study of a woman in a balcony is of a kind to bring an added horror into a night of savage orgies in the most savage part of the Congo. His study of matter destroys the appetite like a nightmare that has escaped from the obscene depths of the sea. It produces, one cannot deny, an emotional effect, like some loathsome shapelessness. Compare with work like this most of the work that is being done in England under Futurist inspiration. How seldom one finds among it a picture that is as interesting to the imagination as a common kitchen toast-rack! You see a picture that looks like an incapably opened sardine-tin, and you notice that it is called Portrait of Mother and Infant. You see another that looks as if someone had taken a pair of scissors and cut a Union Jack into squares and triangles, and had then rearranged the pieces at random in a patchwork quilt, and this, in turn, is labelled, say, "Tennyson reading In Memoriam to Queen Victoria." In either case, if the thing were done once, it might be funny. But the young artists are not content to have done it once. They keep on emptying the contents of ragbags and dustbins on to canvases in the most wearisome way. We can neither laugh at them nor take them seriously. We can simply repeat the name of their new review with violent sincerity.

It is not, however, with the Futurists themselves that our chief quarrel is. It is with the people who do not support the Futurists, but will not condemn them for fear of going down to posterity in the same boat as the people who once ridiculed Wagner and the Impressionists. This timidity of the laughter of posterity is surely the last sign of decadence. It is the kind of thing that, in the religious world, would prevent you from criticising the Prophet Dowie or Mrs. Eddy. It would compel you to take all new movements seriously simply because they were new. It would lead you to suspend your judgment about the Tango till you were in your grave and your great-grandchild could come and whisper posterity's verdict about it to your tombstone. It is, of course, a fine thing to have a hospitable mind for new things—to be able to greet a Wordsworth or a Manet appreciatively on his first appearance. Artists have every right to demand that their work shall be judged, not according to whether it fits in with certain academic standards, but by its power of affecting the emotions and the imagination. Great artists are continually extending the boundaries of their art, and there are, in the last resort, no rules to judge art by except that the artist must by some means or other succeed in bringing something to life. Boccioni satisfies the test in some of his sculpture, and therefore we must praise him, whether we like his methods or not. The majority of the Futurists, on the other hand, produce no more effect of life than a diagram in Euclid which has been crossed and blotted out with inks of various colours.

Even, however, when, as in the case of some of the sculptures of Boccioni and some of the paintings of Severini, we admit that a brilliant imagination is at work, we are not necessarily committed to belief in the methods through which that imagination happens to express itself. It is possible to enjoy Whitman's poetry without believing that he has laid down the essential lines for the poetry of the future. One may agree that Boccioni and Severini have justified their methods by results as far as they themselves are concerned; this does not mean that one agrees with them when they preach the adoption of their methods by artists in general. One takes the Futurist movement seriously, indeed, only because various clever men have joined it, and because young Italians, more than most of us, seem to be justified in some form of violent reaction against

A fortnight here with the United States Department Conference - the first week on the Council of Economy, the second on Insurance.

We traveled at a large party - H.D. Harker, Cde. Goldsmith, Walker - 1/2 a dozen of the ~~members~~ some in the day conference led with others going to the Perryman Chicago breakfast & luncheon - very important feature. During the week about 5000 of American papers in - Walter Lippman (Papers & Politics) Professor Darratt who after a two single ladies of the U.S. SDS stayed out at doctor's house.

The account of the first week was the strike of the Oxford group led by Cde against the 11.000 rule & then general rebellion attended. We went to bed early on Saturday - tired with one thing - when I came down at last morning I found fresh Hankins & a slate of considerations & the Oxford men in a slate of Deprava. of letters that just conflict and have come to a total in a short time. Of the two I am inclined to think that the whole conflict will be decided in a more serious & dramatic lesson to all the nations of the world. It may end in revolution in Germany
- a lot will spread to Russia - in time.

Our work is completely dominated by anxiety & restless desire for more news. We are kept in probably the least concerned of the principal combatants, but even so, the outlook is gloomy & terrifying. All things are bound to press onward before us, for we will not meet perhaps a few years: that will show us desperate - the French will fight to the finish, & we will massacre as long as we can through. The German Government will fight for its life & it is believed by the Germans that will follow this. If the Germans have some military genius behind the magnificent effort of their army, they may conquer France & keep out Russia & we shall have to ^{fight} ~~do~~ over.
 But we believe ourselves the impregnable

 I am not too anxious that he shall take command & run the show. Both sides & I feel that we want to start the F.A.D. as we started the d.S. of Econ & the Headstream & then leave it to younger hands. We shall be only too glad to retire & get back to the quiet life of research & pleasant social companionship and of staying with, enjoyed before I found the Trade Commission. Since then there has been the work of scientific organization.

I often wonder what will be J.D. Clark's career. He interests me because he shows a remarkable intensity of purpose — it remains to be seen whether he is so persistent as he is intense. He certainly has a clear cutting & somewhat subtle intellect. But he has no humor & a most absurd habit of "taking out" everything he does not happen to like.
 I am however not sure that before he has made up his mind to work with the Labor Party in order to get into closer touch with the Trade Unions.
 He & Sydney initiate each other on Cole & the subject of ~~indulgences~~ is a long list of personal antagonisms. His weakest point seems to be that there is no one he does like except in a temporary form — he resents anyone who is not a follower & has a real contempt for all leaders.
 Even he himself. With his keen intelligence, aristocratic temper & absence of humanitarian sympathy it is difficult to believe that watch him trying not to hate his

 But into the present condition is highly improbable. The debate last year got to show that what any such coalition is Anderson to say of man to make the

For unknown reasons the governing classes are far more helpful ^{for me} about one chance of reading. Last night I lay awake thinking over the closeness of any other or conventional of friendship. To most men a friendship does not imply the continuance of friendship beyond the time when the friendship intimacy is a pleasure to both parties. ^{Success} Friendship seems, according to this assumption, to have ^{nothing to do with} ~~nothing to do with~~ nature of - by an hour, by a minute, by a day, or by a year - sometimes by a lifetime but usually by some day. "We have ceased to be friends" is a no more frequent phrase than "we have ceased to be neighbors". There are few relations that hold upon any other state of things with dignity or importance. A friend is a book that you read & when you have finished it it is put on a shelf, in a book paper basket, or sold. This assumption of lack of permanence is, to me, tragic. But if all friendships are the permanent then it is unwise to enter very far into personal intimacy ^{or affairs} ~~or affairs~~. unless you are certain of your own ^{and} ~~and~~ of the other's participation. For there is no ^{consciousness} ~~consciousness~~ of decay or death in the relation by which we ^{make} ~~make~~ human friendships, and terminations become rare cases, ^{for that has been} ~~for that has been~~

Some Enter all I have accepted is the scheme of the Sec Proposed Amcraute of Secondary Teachers in regard of the Teachers Associations. The assumption - I mean the mental assumption has been supporting.
The War rages with increasing fury - it seems about like the end of civilization. All the complacent optimism of the British official world has dropped. The sinking of the Lusitania was the "limit" ~~of the~~ to an the intellectual of middle class ^{enjoyed only class} ~~of the~~ (a strange fact - because it is not really true until a mind is under the Revolution of civilization (up in Belgium). ~~They~~ ~~admittedly~~ But I think this withdrawal of the ~~optimistic~~ ~~official~~ has been to some extent "calculated". Except for the ~~defeat~~ of the Danes - which no one yet understands - the position is not over too it has been all along. What was abroad was to official optimism - the complacent - assumption is to end spring that we were going to beat the German War Machine this summer.

Really it - about 20th ^{as of 1940} ~~had been~~ ^{the} British Optimism had been ~~made~~ "made in Germany" in ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~mind~~ ^{mind} of the person for what we were going to bring to bear on the complacent - Present Germany.

Today ~~we~~ we have a new force in Italy on our side - the ~~we~~ we are ~~not~~ ^{not} ~~sure~~ ^{sure} of the tenacity of her armies. When we have suffered that in the few ~~weeks~~ now to face it I think may be too to spread it to first days of the war - during that terrible ^{period} ~~period~~ ^{over} heartened to finally to ~~convince~~ ^{convince} ~~form~~ to Latin seem as good as to ~~Teutons~~.

What concerns us personally most of all is the state of the German ~~mind~~. There is no doubt - a ~~resolute~~ ^{resolute} ~~feeling~~ ^{feeling} ~~coming~~ ^{coming} ~~up~~ is to ~~forming~~ ^{forming} ~~down~~ ^{down} that they are going to be ~~paid~~ ^{paid} for the rebels, ~~and~~ ^{and} the ~~fact~~ ^{fact} ~~has~~ concentration - 2 of 3 plans that the organs of the Union have been told to hold their ~~hands~~ ^{unholy hands} from meddling between against the ~~Union~~ - by how ever has done the studying for us.

But - a silent rage is gathering. The Trad. Union Structure to Trad. Union have deliberately tried to take advantage of the death of ~~some~~ 1-day off as some & again has developed.

This is felt - the "not flying to form":
The upper & middle class are making tremendous savings in their own ways, suffering in the income - of course they have been successful in contracts. But the ^{some of} ~~the~~ ^{contracts} ~~check~~ they continue to work. The Structure of Structure of the consciousness of the poor citizens, & of the Union Structure, then will be a silent.

But deep roots intentions to shake the Union down when the ^{manipulation} ~~hand~~ ^{on} ~~order~~ ^{has} the ~~Union~~ ^{Capitalist}

After this has all may expect to see many into - Trad. Union moves: "Scientific Management" led to schemes & finally a provision for the description of military & military under to ~~discipline~~ ^{exercise} of compulsory military service. Under this was also one, or an - for the (and & to had features of a Service State which will not ~~be~~ be "serving the State"

 - but "serving the Nation" - a very different business. As I may be coming with a step by step of positive collection
 - a restriction of the Communist-expedition. The attack could hardly be blotted. As a good deal of the chaos has been brought about - & the utter incapacity of ordinary leaders to organize their forces, or to make the Division fragments of little groups of rebels. The Draft should be an ~~fund~~ fund of socialists as largely sufficient to this. Can & better ^{is} - be for as to an ~~dry~~ dry angle but talk with each other, an understanding of the common & preparing to say to the effect of the Discipline is the a ~~burden~~ burden principle.

My D. D. group - some other low form of the meeting.

There has been some strong to Cochran to Wilson critics; then again let there be an intention to intrude completely making industrial service. The Parkman Linn Prof evidently seems to let Henderson take credit for the two medals - D.D. & Adams. Personally I think they would be better off to keep out of it. But unless we know ~~the~~ how serious the situation is we cannot judge. In fact in almost every Department of ~~the~~ War-Policies we can hear no opinions because all the essential facts are hidden from sight. Part of our ^{misconduct} ~~the~~ written reports ~~are~~ ^{has to be} ~~that~~ ^{that} that we are all of us mortally concerned in an effort to ignore - or on left - pay to the ~~remembrance~~ of the Clubs - looks as if that is happening at the front - that we should intend to do to meet the emergency. And to that the fact that the whole range of questions involved in the War is outside our experience & culture and it is easy to understand the deep depression & restlessness that has watered the League & Socialist work. Let us hope to get down an enjoying it - that we are not at the front.

June 14th

We had heard ~~from~~ much gossip about the actions of Hawdon's ^{entire} retirement: Dr. Arnold Bennett told us that Mr. Hanna had told him that "Hawdon was a credit"; Vaughan says she is helping the Darling Street till Sunday but - Aspinth & other members of the Cabinet find Hawdon "very hard" & troublesome; some subjects regarded him as a scapegoat to the public press. Henry it was interesting to hear his own account of the transaction. He informed us of a definite letter from me he can find it in some of the ^{papers} & send you to understand his mind.
 Aspinth had not consulted him about a reconstruction - to find he heard of it was then to Cabinet but came round with the statement that to submit was justified & that all ministers must read the terms respectively. He of course told Aspinth to feel free to dispose with his services & Aspinth accepted his resignation with the sense that the Government should do. Churchill apparently thought had to remain on & succeeded in imposing himself (is working at Dalmeny etc)

14 - Admiralty is under impression - not (Haldane).

Haldane proposed the review - except that he was to have been in charge of the Peace negotiations. However he is generally opposed - is to a report & is setting down to work in developing the Judicial Committee.

He says that he had refused ^{to the Cabinet} to see that Germany was preparing for war & was a to Cabinet - but more preparations ^{on one side} should be undertaken privately, which would show the same publicity to Encourage friendly feelings between Germany & ourselves. He believes that there ^{was} ~~was~~ ^{was} a Chance of a strong war: ^{from Germany's ruler's words} that he had seen that it was inevitable. Looking back on the 10 years ^{administering} he thought that he went over to have delay of War Pension & Insurance & pushed as case of infants & children & mothers & physical training. As soon as he was critical of the present administration; & reported that the ^{war was done} civil administration of the War office had not been left ^{at his hands} in the hands of Bitcham on autonomous ^{in a report} & to make incident; & things had been allowed to drift. He was still optimistic that the German would be exhausted & that he was still full of admiration for their politicians & officers.

He did not look a physical wreck - but his perpetual directing has no small taken the eye of his intellect. He was for many years his friend has he has been since he became a cabinet minister. Grey apparently is serious in conception & very dependent - suffering from degeneration of the eyes - an affection which cannot get better & may get worse. Gladstone to one Minister who has served ^{popular} success ^(with confidence) - in ^{popular} He is the "new G. H. H." with the Tories, who is still looked upon by large sections of the country as the "Crown Government". There is a certain amount of He is being "thrown" by the to times who appeared he has always assiduously cultivated - may because he has been a cultured admirer of German thought. A Lord Chancellor, ^{on whose tenure} it is he was however his reputation seems more than a - a sort of fictitious someone.

 But he is distinctly precipitant - reserves for himself a great deal - perhaps of is his kind of attitude & habit of was that he was even further from England. There is no prospect lost - is killing & personal charm - the inevitable result of age, ^{much} business & personal fame.

 The other great mission she has become notorious ^{throughout the world} for is leading women, especially to leading headed countries at the Hague conference of women for the ~~purpose~~ ^{purpose} of ^{peace} ^{mission} among the governments of the world - Belgium & neutral. She is one of the few "neutral" women who have changed both the ~~peace~~ ^{peace} ^{mission} ^{to} Germany, Austria Hungary, France, Belgium, Italy, Spain & she has found in each policy encouraging - expressing his own personal pacifist sentiments but saying little or nothing about his friend - the French ministers were decidedly hostile - to most hatred of all to any "peace missionaries", the Italians were "the boys who are not boys"; the Hungarians were on coming, allowing a private meeting & showing no hatred of either ~~Spain~~ or Russia; disliking all responsibility for Belgium "but was Germany's affairs" & saying to her at most in private easy for her to make a separate peace with Russia - & as for the rest of the world it did not concern them. They had beaten the Russians & was just ready to make friends with them. The Austrians were nervous & depressed but - felt no complete confidence with result - they agreed to commit themselves. It was her description of Paris that was most interesting. To understand seeing exactly was perspective & every the work popularized written & self-confident - at any rate interesting. But then was a grimness & a restrained miscellany that showed deep bitterness against England - ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~the~~ ^{the} the Massie & of the whom it seemed to have the only real thing: France - that was delightful. But the Chancellor with Foreign Secretary both of whom she interviewed were far from ready ready & listen to Peace proposals & even to encourage her & promote them thus any of the other subjects. Belgium History (?) is particularly terribly interesting at the loss of life - he had lost his son & every young man mourning its children - they were in the line - at that - a cost: ~~the~~ ^{the} longer the War lasted the more different - & could be to ~~permanently~~ to military part to give of Dolfin - the former Peace came to him reasonable: it seems Germany comes off to be! Algeria - the day add am to us - hence support - & the father of Germany feels hence to be at the top of his fortune & would be glad to entertain proposals before another winter in the trenches.

 He even suggests that there must be a conference of neutral powers into negotiations of the belly-ants. They will not recall - to U.S. on relation - looks to Sweden or Spain as the most likely. The escape of Germany as the initiation of Peace. The view - to least - concerned with 11-1-4-11- Sunday 11-6-discussion, on American opinion. "The American cannot get" remarks Swedish contemplation

 - "their opinion of the Dumps is really 7-20 percent!"

Prof. J. M. Addison herself thought of inconceivable that to U.S. she is hard - she would see little or no difference between British policy & German policy either before or during the war - at least that is the impression she leaves on one's mind. The first theme with us was the "heartiness" of the seas.

June 22

We are very much perturbed about the New Minimums Bill & the recent report. Lloyd Jones with ^{his} ⁱⁿ ^{the} ^{most} ^{important} ^{case} ^{for} ^{be} ^{heard} ^{and} ^{convincing} people into agreement has got the support of most of a group of Trade Union leaders to an extraordinary proposal to establish what is practically compulsory law as a basis for the employer & the servant - that paper. The business refers I have written to D. with it & large sections of the Trade Unionists in a result of a majority of its provisions. We are afraid that Lloyd Jones has been "too clever" & that a high-spirited spirit has been a considerable & perhaps dangerous reaction against the "protection" of some of the leaders. If the more serious times it means another era of fighting for the rights of Trade Unionism.
 - we shall be back again at the anti-Trade Union agitation & shall couple it a period of acute depression. We have not yet an epidemic of anti-Trade Unionism: the war is too serious.

From all we hear Lloyd George is going to buy Chamberlain - i.e. leaving the leadership of the radicals to the leadership of an Imperialist Nationalist Party. He is said to be glad only inasmuch ^{as} his radical ^{followers} ~~could~~ ^{are} creating a circle of admiring Tories. The temptation to become the Prime Minister of a far ahead Tory-Democratic - Imperialist-Industrial party will be great - & he is not the man to resist it. Even Lloyd's reform - is the ^{price} ~~price~~ of a commercial alliance against Germany is just the sort of ~~far~~ ^{far} ~~such~~ ^{such} thing that he might be led into. His present subservience to the Tories is rather likable. The Opposition at home & abroad of the greatest enemies, once got over their enmity, they become the most ~~valuable~~ ^{valuable} allies.

July 22

We dined alone with Hal & Jane - a luxurious dinner - our host - having been no longer in the front - had from back to his by Chapman his excellent liquors. He on the floor: announced that we and the U.S. should start a campaign of ~~agitation~~ or the de-struction of Soviet life etc. etc.
 During the night we had been he evaded the issue of increased taxation on the rich - tried to counter Seduz's plea for moderate & stable taxation of the system of the commitments of rich persons & to turning out of employment of ^{workers} 'retainers'
 - (etc. important - due to a 'diamond') etc.
 His whole plan was based on a he argued that there must be permanent increased taxation - and he was very high level best.
 I pointed out - however - from cutting down the profits for executives. He went on to think out his justification of - or too very often to war, & he supposed that he had enough & clear going now to work under a Committee - perform a scheme - etc.
 Could not make out clearly what he was driving at - except that he is known as a proponent for infants - & wants "intellectual - criticism for forward" He said he was plunging a long paper.

 - he said 14 to Crowley on his (date) of I mean A. D. Kitchener & Lloyd George & let A. D. on virtual P. M. which means let Home be broken into two parts. I shall - whether on old ground has much initiative left - he is too free in his living - has become slightly aside from self-indulgence in (areas) alcohol & etc. as in food. The same I imagine is of the sort of Kitchener's weakness. Most of the weakness of our War arrangements are due to Kitchener's ignorance of industrial affairs & the P. M. speaking & wrote disinterestedly to himself about - until of necessity to be to cause of public scandal. That - well - led weakness is a serious question of our future. Weakness has become a national vice. The English is as able as it forms but he has a shockingly low standard of work.

Dec. 1815

before letters ^{from} volume 1 of diary

I add to this entry (The last scene of my friendship with Betty Dalpou. She called ⁱⁿ by appointment & stayed some time talking with Selwyn & myself. But to her end was evidently much constrained & fettered - in fact she was so. apologetic but I thought that she had been all.

 A hostile glance at me - a curious dead critical look in her eyes - convinced me that it was not illness but the sort of unpleasant consciousness that she disliked the form to whom she felt some tie of duty. I ^{met her} thought of whom I met day at the N.W.S.S. She had lost her look of constraint - her mind was made up & she greeted me with calm friendliness. No suffering on me to an intense meeting & some time then her face silent. The friendship has been deeply closed - without words of complaint - in other words.

I think I understood the meaning of this strangely capricious behaviour. The whole life of this charming lady is centered in a narrow fur  her great brother-in-law.

She is a devoted mother, a conscientious & effective wife, as an educated young girl all these feelings in subordination to a varied work of the Court relation. Arthur Deppin is as much the center of thought & feeling as his large family as Joseph Chamberlain was at Hopedale - and among all his family Betty is the most complete over-thrower.

For a few years he ~~seems~~ ^{is} a library for me - a "curious interaction" - which I have taken notice because I noticed the character of it. These "curious interactions" are the one of the members of the Scudder - indeed intellectual engine - whose reaction is intellectual intercourse with distinguished names. Persons interest A. J. D. because Cassin one has

- he is too skeptical to believe in the too aristocratic to be moved by ^{the rich & dress of the} ~~press~~ ^{institutions} ~~press~~. There could be no real friendship between us - because friendship ^{of that sort} with me is based on my happy marriage - the way of friendships that intends me as fellow workers - then comradeship of fact. Betty Deppin, I think, thought that her

(1) The value of each human life in man, woman, and child; the value and the equal value. Political and social applications of this spiritual truth and principle might be unwise because premature; or they might be neglectful of other truths, such as the truth of differing function or endowment. But it was a fundamental truth.

(2) The reversal of judgment, which put patience above force, and service above power, and giving above receiving.

(3) The superiority of the spiritual to the material, with the corresponding elevation of the material by spiritual use.

(4) The value of service and as force.

"The Kingdom of God": a thing of spiritual quality, eternal in its nature, but passing through the ages from a remote past to an illimitable future. "In the world of to-day": in the unprecedented water and whirl of material forces; amidst men absorbed in the present and the transient; in the sphere where lay all their own opportunities, responsibilities, and needs.

Women

The left theory on ^{the} women's movement has and claims a social view of the women's movement & sees it as a social movement in general.

Why is the problem of women's? When the right acknowledges that there is a woman's share of the work of the world and she is the majority: $\frac{3}{4}$ of the human beings making the world. When they Govt. former service to the Govt. in order and the Govt. are in order.

has a feeling of the Govt. are in order: The Govt. are in order.

Don't be in order but to be in order for the Govt. are in order.

are in order and I was had up to them and are more and by the Govt.

Govt. service in order? Govt.

The Govt. are in order, the Govt. are in order, the Govt. are in order.

Private plans.

Socialist - an effort of Govt. Does not mean identity in former circumstances. Also to be the Govt. are in order.

identity of many income: The Govt. are in order.

Characteristics of Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

Collection of Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

Dilemma: When a Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

has made in order to be in order. But Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

are former Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order: Govt. are in order.

The weepers of Socrates: the strike, the vote, the strike, the vote, the strike, the vote.

Center of World Democracy & the economy } we refer to ways and situations of } present movements of it cities

Control (let's) 3 nations: Thailand, Sri Lanka, India & the economy Dutch-Indo.

of India River: formation of an economy of the world - from the world Thailand (and) not at 200 not at 200 accept - by one of us to the other nations - formation India (and) other parts of the world. Do not want - of India (and) other parts of the world.

Then nations have been independent: what -

- the center from the center of the world in center of the world - the center of the world has been a part of the center of the world to a center - in the center of the world that - a center - in the center of the world What is the center of the world?

Ceteris paribus - solution: what is the center of the world?
What is the center of the world? - the center of the world?

What is the center of the world? - the center of the world?
What is the center of the world? - the center of the world?
What is the center of the world? - the center of the world?

What is the center of the world? - the center of the world?
What is the center of the world? - the center of the world?
What is the center of the world? - the center of the world?

The key is the conditions, if we can clear out the situation, the 'one' song.
The heart from the world is present can rise & when we become all has & grows.

6) The key is that in the drawing of the Pursuing path in a world with many to support & support, of matter is our spirit, that has depth solutions, offering more for people from marketing, conditions.
The thing is the answer.

5) The conventional society must continue. But that is seen in about the to think to better society must be the same as has on a lot of similar questions & see society in what we can do. Society being a long way of years 2015 services.
