Dearest Amy,

Your splendid present arrived last night. I do so very warmly thank you for it: but really and truly could not accept but such a very handsome gift. When Elsie is here today I will ask her if you have a copy on yourself & also if you would like to borrow mine. I dipped into the 2nd volume directly, I rec^d your volumes. every reference I could send returned is so affectionate & appreciative. I am afraid reading them will be anguishing to you, but still up lifting too.

Agnes has been in bed with a cold but is coming down today in time to get Elsie. With renewed most heartfelt thanks. You are very lovingly
M. E. Jewette
