Hotel Pavilion.

Wednesday.

Dear Miss Smith.

I've got a wheel on car. I go to our bag for the trip.
I'm afraid I've kept
you from making
another plan for
this long morning.

Now you'll be sorry
for me when you hear my hotel is going to be closed on Friday.
The man's just

write me a note
to say he can't make it pay. I'm like an excited fishman. I'm going to look at a couple of the great hotels here & if they don't suit me will have for Paris or Florence on Friday.

It was very beautiful yesterday but I shall not see your mother. She's like a

fountain of strength
good bye dear
frankful friend
