My dear Popsy,

I have lately given my nephew Douglas Farrell instructions about my will and I have left you £1000 in token of my affection for you & your dear Mother & of appreciation of her splendid work on better housing for the poor & other socially able to but in all she has done & done & done so much if you would like it I should like that in such sums to you, but they would be part of the eventual £1000.

When I look back upon when women are today and when they were 40 or 50 years ago I feel what immense progress has been made & what a big part of it all owe to you & your husband

Yours affectionately

M. G. Fawcett
