

Millon Cottage

Aviemore 2. B.

4830

Sept. 14. 99

Darling James

I was much rejoiced to have the telegram about the Fish. I consider it a magnificent triumph. Every body sends their congratulations.

The papers were very interesting. I was astonished at the vast number of Latin sentences that you did.

Androcles was rather charming.

I expect you were pleased to meet such a familiar friend.

Were you able to say "how this ode continued?" The

Horace selections were rather lucky, I think -

The fish telegram was a distinct improvement on the last one I received here which was to announce the Dreyfus verdict.

I am glad to hear you are having an extra week's holiday, during which I presume you will do no lessons from 10 - to 12-30.

Give my fond love to the family. I leave this also & slack on Wednesday next.

Farewell.

Your loving sister

Dorothy

Fawcett Library
27 Wilfred Street
London S.W.1.

966