Florence,

Sept. 25th

Dear Mr. Curran - Buntick

Many thanks; but I am here, and not home in England again till after the middle of October. I hear that a card has already gone to you explaining the delay of my reply.

I am on my way to Assisi to meet Mr. Paul Salvatori, who after reading my "Little Plays of St Francis" asked me to go out there to meet him. - an honor I could not well refuse.

I am publishing this autumn a small addition to the series - called "Followers of St Francis"; also another "Dialogue" entitled "Echo de Paris" with a provocative footnote which will enrage the obscurantist moralists, I hope, as they need to be enraged as a preliminary to curing them of their foolishness. Next year I hope to bring out quite the naughtiest book I have yet written. Look out for the name of "Trimblerigg".

Very kind remembrances

Yours sincerely
Lawrence Buntick
