

THE SITUATION.

Will all members intending to join the Men's League Contingent in the Procession of June 17th, please inform the Office at once on a postcard, so that we may know our strength? It is sincerely hoped that members of the League will march with the League.

All members will muster at 4.30 outside St. Stephen's House, Westminster Bridge.

May, 1911, will always be remembered as a marked date in the history of our movement. Never has the justice of our claim on behalf of women's enfranchisement been so widely admitted in the press, in elected councils, and in public meetings; and never has our cause been so triumphantly vindicated in Parliament itself. There is probably not an anti-Suffragist in the kingdom who does not now realize in his heart that our victory is certain and near. Anti-Suffragists may continue the struggle, but the heart is knocked out of their ranks. They will make no great sacrifices for a mere negative. The positive forces of liberation and enlightenment are all against them, and they know it.

The month opened with the dinner at Pagani's, given by the League in honour of Miss Vida Goldstein and the emancipated Dominions of the Empire which she represents. An account of the assembly will be found in another column, and we will here only give our renewed thanks to Mr. Pember Reeves for presiding, and to leading representatives of the chief suffrage societies, such as Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. Despard, and Miss Christabel Pankhurst for accepting our invitations, and addressing us on behalf of our common cause, in comparison with which no differences as to opinions or methods have any significance.

Next day (May 5th) came the debate and division on the second reading of the Conciliation Bill. The speeches on our side were all excellent. Sir George Kemp, to whom the fortune of the ballot had given the Bill, introduced it in an admirable statement. Mr. Henderson (with a reservation in favour of adult suffrage), Lord Hugh Cecil, Mr. Hugh Law, and Mr. King supported him, but to our mind the very best speeches were delivered by Mr. Ellis Griffith, the Welsh Whip, and Mr. Lansbury, the earnest and eloquent Labour member. Of the opposition we can only say that it collapsed. Mr. MacCallum Scott's was the only speech that rose above futility, and it told in our favour. Of the fifteen arguments usually brought against us, he admitted that fourteen were nonsense, and he excused his disbelief in our cause only on the weary old ground of the physical force argument.

The debate resulted in the triumphant majority of 167 (255 to 88), and the Bill was referred to a Committee of the whole House. Instantly the question of facilities arose. Would the Government grant the opportunity for the further stages, or would they add this Bill also to the measures they have burked by their Veto? With the exception of The Daily Chronicle, the whole of the Liberal Press united in urging Mr. Asquith to follow his plain duty and carry out the will of the people as expressed by their representatives. The Daily News called it an overwhelming case for the granting of facilities. The Nation said: "The Government's pledges are specific, and it cannot now merely decree the measure's extinction." The Manchester Guardian warned the Liberal party that it cannot forswear its fundamental principles without suffering for it in all sorts of ways. The Westminster Gazette said that to shirk the subsequent stages would be "to treat the women as children, and to afford excuse for folly on their side."

No government can afford to disregard such warnings as these from their own supporters in the press. It is evident that Lord Robert Cecil was expressing the real thoughts of nearly the whole Liberal newspaper opinion when he wrote to The Times: "Will the Government act up to their promises, or are we to be met by further evasions? We heard much recently about the difference between the male and female sense of honour. If facilities for the Bill again are withheld, women may rightly thank God that such difference exists." Our position, already overwhelmingly strong, was further established by the appear-ance of the Lord Mayor of Dublin with his suite at the bar of the House on May 12th to petition for full facilities. In reality, he came as representing all the 83 City, Borough, and District Councils, which have sent up similar petitions, and our League joined most heartily in the great welcome given him on his arrival at Euston, midnight, May 11th, and at the dinner organ-ized for him on May 12th by the W.S.P.U. The Lord Mayor of Bradford, together with the Mayors of Glasgow, Huddersfield, Oldham, and many other cities, also requested the Prime Minister to receive them in deputation with a similar purpose. Mr. Asquith refused. On no other subject in the world would he have refused a deputation of such importance.

In answer to Lord Wolmer, Mr. Lloyd George, speaking in place of the Prime Minister, announced on Monday 29th, that next session, if the Bill was again read a second time, the Government would be prepared to allot a week for its other stages. He further added that "the Government were bound by their pledges to find whatever time was necessary to enable the House to express its opinion even to the final stage of the Bill." But as he declared the time granted next session would be limited to a week without the closure, the Government have obviously done nothing whatever so far towards the fulfilment of their pledges

We rejoice to see Mr. Walter McLaren's resolution to postpone payment of members till women have the vote. It was formerly thought a mean profession to live on money filched from women's pockets, and we hope there is still enough sense of decency left in the country to despise members who are willing to stoop so low. We certainly can feel nothing but contempt for a "representative" who votes himself £400 a year out of money contributed by women who secure no representation at all. It is no excuse to say that Cabinet Ministers have long been taking larger sums on the same iniquitous terms. The pickpocket was never acquitted because Dick Turpin stole more.

Mr. J. E. Francis, a well-known member of our League, is, we believe, the first man to have his goods sold up for tax-resistance in our cause. His protest in the auction-room at Brighton was well received by a crowded audience. H. W. N.

DINNER TO MISS VIDA GOLDSTEIN.

The dinner given by the League in honour of Miss Vida Goldstein at Pagani's Restaurant on May 4th was a great success. The number of guests increased so rapidly during the last few days that all our arrangements had to be re-cast and a larger room taken, to accommodate those who sought to welcome our distinguished guest.

The chair was taken by the Hon. W. Pember Reeves, Director of the London School of Economics in the University of London, and formerly Agent-General for New Zealand. He was supported at the high table by Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. Despard, Miss Christabel Pankhurst, Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, Mrs. Pember Reeves, Miss Emily Davies, Mr. Herbert Jacobs, and Mr. R. F. Cholmeley. Among the other guests were Mr. W. S. B. MacLaren, M.P., Mrs. Philip Snowden, Councillor Margaret Ashton, Mrs. Swanwick of Manchester, Miss Evelyn Sharp, Miss Isabel Fry, Mr. A. G. Gardiner, Editor of the Daily News, Miss Philippa Fawcett, and members of the League Committee. A very striking feature of the dinner was the presence at one table of a body of members of the London Graduates Society, guests of Dr. Garrett Anderson. Altogether some two hundred guests were present, and the keynote was one of confident optimism.

Mr. Pember Reeves, in proposing the toast of Miss Vida Goldstein, paid a very high tribute to her own work in Australia. It would have been a most salutary lesson to Anti-suffragists to have heard the testimony, moderate and yet emphatic, which he bore to the general results of women's enfranchisement in our great self-governing colonies. With genial irony he recapitulated the gloomy prognostications of antipodean opponentsjust those timorous forebodings with which we in England are still being amused-and quickly showed how experience had in every case demonstrated their complete incorrectness. His case was the more convincing in that he did not seek to exaggerate the good effects of the change.

Miss Goldstein, in reply, referred both to the general aspects of her work, and also to her personal experience as a parliamentary candidate. A propos of the forecast that women would be insulted in politics, she told a dramatic story of the one occasion upon which a member of an audience sent up an offensive question. She explained to the audience that she could not answer the question, whereupon the whole audience rose in denunciation of the offender, on whose behalf she had to make a special appeal. Her speech was both inspiring and consolatory to the women present in the midst of their protracted struggle, inspiring as a stimulus to increased endeavour, and consolatory as tending to allay any lurking doubts as to the happy results of the movement in Australia

Mr. Laurence Housman then proposed the toast of "The Cause and the Bill." He drew a most brilliant picture of the Conciliation Bill and the women's movement as a whole in terms of the famous fable of the duck and the kangaroo, with special reference to those who saw in the Bill not only an inadequate measure of reform, but a measure calculated to stand in the way of further progress on democratic lines. The audience warmly appreciated the many altogether admirable touches which marked the elaboration of his theme.

In proposing the toast Mr. Housman coupled it with the names of Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. Despard, and Miss Christabel Pankhurst. who were subsequently called upon to reply. The presence of these three great champions of the cause on the eve of the second reading of Sir George Kemp's Bill was a source of great satisfaction to all, and it was entirely appropriate that at so momentous a crisis the leaders of the three great societies should join in a final appeal for the fair treatment of the Bill. To give an adequate idea of their speeches would be impossible. Suffice it to say that they were greeted with the utmost enthusiasm, and made speeches worthy of the occasion

In conclusion, Mr. Herbert Jacobs moved the health of Mr. Pember Reeves, who shortly replied.

JOHN STUART MILL.

MORE than 40 years ago, John Stuart Mill cast all the weight that the dignity of his personal character and all the force that his great intellect commanded into the incipient movement for the emancipation of women, both by action in Parliament and by the publication of his closely reasoned and unanswerable arguments on the subject. It was in the late sixties that I, then a lad, was present when Mill mounted the hustings at Trafalgar Square after the election. The Westminster constituency had rejected this, the foremost thinker and most progressive man of his day in favour of Mr. W. H. Smith, then chiefly known as a successful newsvendor. The crowd was hilarious and somewhat derisive, and occasionally Mill had to dodge some missile which, by chance or superior aim, came too close. In these efforts he was entirely successful, though the shaking of the massive head and the incessant movement of the lips, as he muttered to himself, showed that he held an opinion as to these electoral proceedings.

On the very spot where the hustings stood a crowd of sympathizers awaited, on May 20th, the march of contingents from the Freedom League, the Women's Social and Political Union, the Actresses' Franchise League, the Free Church League, the Fabian Women's Group, the Men's Political Union, and our own League, who were to gather, in a great cause, round Nelson's column and do honour to the memory of the "stalwart" who once stood almost alone for liberty and the liberation of womanhood.

A procession had started at 2 P.M. from Robert Street and proceeded to Mill's statue on the Embankment, where beautiful floral wreaths were placed on the pedestal. Then Mrs. Despard paid tribute to the thinker in an eloquent speech, animating and full of hope and courage. The procession then marched to Trafalgar Square, and a mass meeting was addressed by the following speakers: Platform 1, Mrs. How-Martyn, Mr. Joseph McCabe, Mrs. Nevinson, Mrs. Mustard, and Dr. Drysdale; Platform 2, Miss Sidley, Mrs. Cobden Sanderson, Miss Mabel Atkinson, Rev. Ed. Clarke, and Miss Irene Miller Platform 3, Miss Neilans, Mrs. Sproson, Mr. Malcolm Mitchell, Miss Tanner, Miss Munro, and Mr. E. Duval.

Three of these speakers were members of our League. Mr Malcolm Mitchell said we were too busy with our games to remember debts to great men. John Stuart Mill had foreseen that women, having been forced into the labour market, must remain there and needed protection as a result. Dr. Drysdale expressed his intense admiration for John Stuart Mill. He was a pioneer of freedom and progress, a thinker and a great political economist. We have advanced just in so far as we have followed his political lead. Mr. Duval wished us to remember that the Prime Ministers of Australia and New Zealand, now visiting us, represent lands where the women of the Empire have votes, and have used them to stop sweating.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

At the first meeting of the new executive committee held on May 16th, Mr. Cecil Chapman, J.P., was elected chairman of the League. Mr. Herbert Jacobs and Mr. Reginald H. Pott were elected Joint Hon. Treasurers, and Mr. J. Malcolm Mitchell was re-elected as Hon. Sec. The following were elected to serve on the General Purposes Committee, it being decided that the Committee should be divided into two portions, one half of which should act in respect of propaganda and the other in connexion with finance: Messrs. J. Y. Kennedy, Capt. C. M. Gonne, Laurence Housman, Joseph Clayton, Dr. C. V. Drysdale, and the officers of the League.

The following resolution was moved by Mr. Laurence Housman, seconded by Mr. T. M. Budgett, and carried unani-That the very hearty thanks of the Committee be mously: given to Mr. Herbert Jacobs for his great services in the past, and his conduct as Chairman of the League."

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the ecutive Committee on Tuesday, 23 May: "With a view to Executive Committee on Tuesday, 23 May : preventing the recurrence of the abuses which have occurred on previous occasions, this League, in the event of a renewal of public demonstrations by the Women's Suffrage Societies, shall organize a corps of witnesses who will be willing to serve at short notice."

JUNE, 1911

OPEN AIR CAMPAIGN.

The Open Air meetings have been resumed, and our banner appeared in Hyde Park on May 21st and 28th. On the first occasion Mr. Simpson and Mr. Gugenheim were the speakers. Mr. Simpson dealt with questions for more than an hour in his usual cheery manner.

The Hyde Park meetings will probably be continued, but it is essential that we do not confine ourselves to this district. May I urge upon all members either (1) to speak once a fortnight at least at open air meetings, to be arranged in the suburbs ; or (2) at least to undertake to find a suitable corner in their neighbourhoods and guarantee on a date arranged to have a chair or an orange-box ready for speakers.

Surely members will not again this summer leave all this important work to the devoted energies of women and the J. M. MITCHELL. efforts of a handful of men !

ALL FOR THE CAUSE.

Suffragette Sally. By G. Colmore (Mrs. H. Baillie-Weaver). London, Stanley Paul. 6s. (To be obtained from the Men's League Offices, 4s. 6d. post free.) MRS. BAILLIE-WEAVER has written several novels, but this seems to us by far the best of them all. It is eminently readableas a novel should be-and therefore to friend and foe alike it is to be recommended. Suffragette Sally, one of the heroines, is a general servant in a commonplace middle-class family. Drawn into the militant movement, she comes in contact with the leaders, throws up her place when goaded to desperation, sells Votes for Women at street corners, learns to speak, takes her part in a deputation, goes to prison, hunger strikes, and finally succumbs to injuries inflicted by a police constable—giving, as other women have done, and are doing, her life for the Cause.

All the story of the last five years of the Women's Movement is told in this book, and told simply, without exaggeration or Geo bitterness. Mrs. Baillie-Weaver understands what the militant movement means; understands why each step has been taken, and understands the prejudice, the brutal opposition, the weakness, and the apathy that the suffragette has had to conquer. The portraits of many of the women who have become famous in the agitation are easily to be recognized. The Pankhursts, Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, Lady Constance Lytton, Annie Kenney, Patricia Woodlock, and others who have dared all for the Cause, are here with Sally Simmonds, the little cockney maid-of-allwork. The horrors of forcible feeding, and the outrages of "Black Friday," the ejections from meetings, and the vacillation of Liberal supporters-nothing of any significance in the Movement is omitted

Suffragette Sally ' is the sort of book that cannot be read with any feelings of comfort. The honest opponent and the merely indifferent will be taught by it as no pamphlet could teach. As for the average Men's Leaguer who reads this book and recalls, as the reviewer does, how little he, or any man has done in these last few years of storm and stress in the way of effective help-well, it must move to activity. J. C.

TREASURER'S NOTE.

MEMBERS will note with considerable satisfaction that the total money received for May is £66 13s. 9d.

Will those members and friends whose names are not enumerated below make a special point of sending at least halfa-crown each to the League this week ?

The postage of the League office is getting enormous. Members have had sixpence per head expended on them this month in postage alone.

The money received for May hardly covers more than this one item.

Rob

Cha

Geo

A. 1

Har

W

G.

W

Dr. W.

J. H W.

G.

W.

A.]

Har

C

G.

B. .

E. .

A. ]

Her

Jos

Joh

G.

Mis

J.

He

Geo

E.

R.

Lau

J. 4

S. (

Go

R

Jan

Ma

W

W

Syc

Cyn H.

E

The work of the office is seriously handicapped by want of funds for necessary expenses. We therefore appeal to you boldly to send us a cheque for as much as you can afford. A. W. G. J., Finance Secretary.

		A	. vv	. G. J., Finance Secretary.
Annual Subscript	ion	8.	1	W. Chatterton Coup-
minual Suboripi	~		2	land 0 2 6
. Francis	£ 0	8. 5	$\begin{bmatrix} d \\ 0 \end{bmatrix}$	A. J. Pearce 0 2 6
bert Cooper	0	1	0
s. Corben	2	0	0	£1 17 0
. Epps	õ	2	6	Special Donations.
Merrick	0	5	0	£ s. d.
rry East	1	1	0	T.D. James 0 1 6
V. Hartley	0	5	0	Norman Parley 0 4 0
Sim	0	10	0	Wm. Boulting 0 5 0
Harbord	0	2	6	S. L. Francis 0 5 0
A. Cox	0	2	6	Capt. Gonne 0 8 0
H. Jayne	0	1	0	Albert Hook 0 2 6
Hoar Collins	0	2	6	W. V. Hartley 0 5 0
Willmore	0	3 2	0 6	Tom Norris 0 5 0
How Martyn		5		Mrs. J. C. Miller . , 0 10 0
J. King B. Baynham	0	5	0 0	Julius Singer 0 5 0
nold Unmann	0	3	6	Wilfrid Green 0 10 0
L. Rice	0	2	6	Victor Prout 0 10 6
B. Clark	1	ĩ	0	£3 11 6
Duval	0	10	0
P. Ellis	0	7	6	Monthly Subscriptions.
Levetus	1	0	0	(each for 12 months.)
E. Hopkins	0	10	0	$\begin{array}{c} \pounds s. d. \\ Norman Parlar \\ 0 1 0 \end{array}$
nry W. Nevinson	1	1	0	Norman Parley 0 1 0
eph Clayton	0	2	6	F. Stanton Barnes. 0 1 0
		-		A. W. G. Jamrach 0 4 0 A. C. W. Aldis 0 1 3
	10	11	6	A. C. W. Aldis 0 1 3 J. Malcolm Mitchell 0 2 6
				Frank Witty 0 1 0
Donations.	£	e	d.	$\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$
in Gordon	1 0	s. 2	a. 6	Harold Brown 1 0 0
b. Epps	0	5	0
Stanton Barnes.	0	2	0	£2 0 9
H. Hooper	2	11	9
s E. Howard	õ	5	0	Postage Fund.
Y. Kennedy	2	0	Ő	£ s. d.
rbert Jacobs	1	Õ	0	J. Y. Kennedy 0 1 0 S. L. Francis 0 5 0
offrey S. Cather	0	5	0	S. L. Francis 0 5 0 W. H. Streatfield 0 1 0
Vulliamy	2	2	0
F. Chomeley	3	0	0
irence Housman		10	6	(monthly) (monthly)
A. Hobson	1	0	0	E. L. Taylor $\dots$ 0 5 0
G. K. Gardell, per		-		J.A.Price 0 2 0
Miss M. A. Warter			0
M. Budgett	10	0	0	£1 1 6
ldfinch Bate	1	-	0	General Fund.
H. Pott	10	0	0	feneral Funa. £ s. d.
nes Houston, per		1	0	J. Y. Kennedy 0 1 0
F. W. Frankland		1	0
jor Wallace Dun-	2	2	0	Total Money received for May.
op R. Snow	22		0	$\pounds$ s. d Sale of Literature 0 14 0
R. Snow	4	4	0
	41	19	9	Advts. in M. Paper 1 0 0 Annual Subscriptions 10 11 6
	11	10	0	New Members 41 19 9
				Donations 1 17 0
New Member	rs.			Special Donations 3 11 6
	£	s .	d.	Monthly Subscriptions 2 0 9
n. Slade	0	-		General Fund 0 1 0
dney R. Daniel	Ő	î	Ő	Postage Fund 1 1 6
ward Thomas	Ő	10		Manchester Branch 3 6 9
ril C. Mardell	-	2	6	Camberley "
E. Cunningham			0	Per Theo. Gugen-
N. Sargeant	0		Ő	heim
G. Chappell	0	-	6
J. Taylor	0		0	£66 13 9
		1. 1.	Ri-Li

MEN'S LEAGUE FOR WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

JUNE, 1911

MEETINGS ADDRESSED BY MEMBERS OF THE M.L.W.S.

MAY	- Martin Markey	Fasthauma WSDI	H. W. Nevinson.
	1. 2.	Eastbourne, W.S.P.U. Willesden, N.U.W.S.S.	Laurence Housman.
,,			Cecil M. Chapman, J.P.
	3.	Hampstead, New Constitutional
, , ,	0.		Joseph Clayton.
	5.	Clapham, W.F.L.	Joseph Clayton.
,,	0.	Criterion Restaurant, A.F.L. Kingston-on-Thames, N.U.W.S.S
	7.	Hyde Park, W.F.L.	Reginald H. Pott.
	1	Ealing, W.S.P.U.	J. Y. Kennedy.
	8	Croydon, W.S.P.U.	Reginald H. Pott.
19	9.	Nottingham, N.U.W.S.S.	J. M. Mitchell.
>>	5.	New Constitutional Society, De-	Cecil M. Chapman, J.P.
	and the second	bate with Mr. Maconochie and	Coon m. onapman, o.r.
		Lady Florence Bourke
,,	10.	Walham Green, W.S.P.U.	Reginald H. Pott.
,,		Wimbledon, W.S.P.U.	F. O. Bather.
,,	11.	Hampton Court, N.U.W.S.S.	J. Y. Kennedy.
11	12.	47, Elm Park Gardens. Con-	Cecil M. Chapman, J.P.
0.,		servative and Unionist W.F.A.
0,,	13.	Camberley, N.U.W.S.S.	T. Gugenheim.
,,	15.	Caxton Hall, Men's Political U.	H. W. Nevinson.
"		Rouel Road, Congregational	Cecil M. Chapman, J.P.
		Church : Lecture, 'Suffrage and Home Life '
0,,	17.	Wakefield, N.U.W.S.S.	F. Stanton Barnes.
0.,	18.	Bishopsgate, Church League	Reginald H. Pott.
		Hendon, ,, ,,
		Criterion Restaurant, A.F.L.	Cecil M. Chapman, J.P.
,,	20.	Hastings, N.U.W.S.S.	Joseph Clayton.
		Trafalgar Square, W.F.L.	J. M. Mitchell, Dr. C. V.
		as an a share a share of the	Drysdale, E. Duval.
,,	21,	Hyde Park, W.F.L.	T. Gugenheim.
		", ", Men's League	J.M. Mitchell, T. Gugen-
		a the second second second second second	heim, and J. Simpson.
	22.	Deptford, W.S.P.U.	Reginald H. Pott.
		Macclesfield, N.U.W.S.S.	Laurence Housman.
		Criterion Grand Hall, Women
	A. 1. 11-1	Writer's League	H. W. Nevinson.
.,,	24.	Letchworth	Laurence Housman.
	NO and	Windsor, N.U.W.S.S.	J. Y. Kennedy and T.
		W 1 11 W C D	Gugenheim.
	07	Woolwich, W.S.P.	Reginald H. Pott.
,,	25.	Winchester, N.U.W.S.S.	Laurence Housman.
		Chorley Wood, W.S.P.U.	Cecil M. Chapman, J.P.
	1 22 -	Horbury Rooms, W., London	Rev. Hugh Chapman, J. Malcolm Mitchell.
	00	Society Remarks NULWSS
,,	26.	Ramsgate, N.U.W.S.S.	Laurence Housman.
	27.	Hornsey, W.S.P.U.	T. Gugenheim. J. M. Mitchell.
		E. Grinstead, Debate with Mr.	o. M. MITCHEII.
	98	Maconochie Hyde Park, Men's League	J. Malcolm Mitchell, T.
"	28.	LIYUG LAIN, MEH S LEAgue	Gugenheim, J. Simpson.
			Arthur Mackinley.
	30	Knightsbridge, New Constitu-	Laurence Housman.
>>	30.	tional Club	Lucatonoo Housman.
	31.	Ealing, London Society	R. F. Cholmeley, J. Y.
"	01.	Luning, London Society	Kennedy.
		Wimbledon, W.S.P.U.	Laurence Housman.

MEETING IN NOTTINGHAM.

A successful meeting was held on May 9th in the Circus Street Hall, Nottingham, under the auspices of the National Union. The speakers were Councillor Margaret Ashton and Mr. J. M. Mitchell. The hall was full, and an absolutely unanimous resolution was passed. Several distinguished Nottingham citizens were present, and Mr. — formerly member of Parliament for one of the city divisions, made an enthusiastic speech at the conclusion.

It was good to see a number of Men's Leaguers present in the hall, either as stewards or in the audience.

TEACHER, experienced, Certificated M.A. of Edinburgh. Deeply interested in W.S. movement, would like to OPEN SMALL PRIVATE BOARDING and DAY SCHOOL. People interested in this will receive particulars and Prospectus on application to "No. 17," MEN'S LEAGUE OFFICES, 159, St. Stephen's House, Westminster, S.W.-[ADVT].

PRINTED BY FRANCIS & Co., 13, Bream's Buildings, Chancery Lane, E.C.

SUFFRAGETTE SALLY.

A NOVEL.

By G. COLMORE (Mrs. H. Baillie Weaver).

A book for supporters and opponents. Gives a faithful account of the meaning of militant action and does justice to the constitutionalists. Buy it, read it, and give it to every "anti" or wobbler you know.

ORDER IT AT THE LIBRARY.

Price 6s. from the Publisher,

STANLEY PAUL & Co., 31, Essex Street, London, W.C. And all Booksellers.

4s. 6d. post free from

THE MEN'S LEAGUE FOR WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE. 159. ST. STEPHEN'S HOUSE, WESTMINSTER, S.W.

THE UNDER-MAN. A NEW NOVEL.

By JOSEPH CLAYTON. 6s.

"Intensely interesting."—Daily News. "A grim, poignant story, at times powerfully told, and always imbued with the author's knowledge of and sympathy with human nature."—Globe. "The story has great merit, and is extremely interesting." Daily Telegraph.

"More like a chapter of real life than a mere romance."

Evening Standard. "Mr. Clayton is to be congratulated on a fine achievement." Morning Post.

From the Publisher,

Mr. MARTIN SECKER, 5, John Street, Adelphi, W.C. And all Booksellers.

Also from the MEN'S LEAGUE OFFICES, 159, St. Stephen's House, Westminster, S.W. 4s. 6d. post free.

LEADING POINTS FOR POLITICAL JUSTICE TO WOMEN.

Edited by Dr. W. BOULTING.

Every member is invited to send us 6d. for 24 copies of this leaflet which resulted from the competition among members of the Men's League.

The leaflet is printed on good paper and contains six paragraphs of salient points connected with Women's Suffrage.

It is intended to be given to people showing some interest in the matter, to encourage them to join the League or subscribe to its funds. It has therefore, printed at the bottom, a suitable form to be torn off and sent to this office.

6d. for 24 post free.

Larger quantities on application.

Send at once to the-

MEN'S LEAGUE FOR WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE, 159. St. Stephen's House, Westminster.