THREE YEARS OF SOVIET PUBLIC ECONOMY.

By J. LARIN.

By the autumn of 1918 Soviet Russia By the autumn of 1918 Soviet Russia-bad a comparatively small army; but, in the last three months of 1918, in the first three of 1919 and in the following three months of the same year there were mobi-lised on an average eight hundred thousand men every three months in European So-viet Russia (exclusive of the Ukraine, Cau-casus, and the Don). In the last three months of 1919, when we began to be vic-torious over the counter-revolution headed by Denikin, the mobilisations were reduced months of 19t, when we built to be detected by Denikin, the mobilisations were reduced to five hundred thousand men; and, in the first three months of 1920, when our victories over the Eastern counter-revolution headed by Koltchak made themselves felt, the mobilisation dropped to three hundred and fifty thousand. These figures prove better than could any diplomatic note that Soviet Russia was sincerely adverse to war with Poland. The attacks by Poland on Russia began on the 26th April. Previously, Soviet Russia had been for the space of six months availing herself of the victories over Koltchak and Denikin, to reduce, month by month, mobilisations, so as to relieve, the heavy unproductive burden imposed upon the population by the necessity of beating off on all sides the attacks of the counter-revolution and of the Entente standing revolution and of the Entente standing

The Mobilisation.

On the whole, the number of people mobi lised in Great Russia (including therein the Urals and the Volga) reached 40 per cent. of all men between the ages of 20 and 39.

Therefore, the places of many workers had to be filled by women, by elderly people and generally by untrained people; in consequence, the quality of work was reduced. The main cause, however, of the fall in the quality and quantity of labour was the famine created by the Entente and their Russian hirelings. At the end of the first year of the Revolution, the imperialist capitalism of the European countries, with the year of the Revolution, the imperialist capitalism of the European countries, with the help of the Czecho-Slovaks and several Cossack generals, cut off the Russian industrial and forest centres with its seventy millions of people from the corn-producing territories; and, if in 1918, European Russia had had such a poor harvest as the present one of 1920, it would have entailed the death of many rillions of people and all State. one of 1920, it would have entailed the death of many millions of people, and all State organisation would have perished. The mere fact that in spite of the lean harvest of 1920 the State rations are being issued to the workers of Moscow more accurately and more lavishly than was done in 1918 when the harvest was bounteous, bears testimony to growth of organisation in Soviet Russia.

War Time Food.

War Time Food.

Still the feeding of the worker, even taking into account the food he gets on the "free markets" (that is by purchasing from the peasants or from speculators, such purchases representing half of the food consumed by the worker) is considerably worse as compared with that of peace time. During the nine years preceding the revolution, 1908—1916, the average daily standard for an adult working man in Russia was 3.280 caleries (reducing the food according to its nourishment into calories). However, at the beginning of 1919, according to investigations, the average was not more than 2.680 calories. At the beginning of 1920, similar investigations showed a somewhat bigger figure, viz. 2.980 calories, representing an improvement for the year of 10 per cent., but still 25 per cent. below that of peace time. We can take 2.830 as the average for the past two years (the date as ing an improvement for the year of 10 per cent., but still 25 per cent. below that of peace time. We can take 2.830 as the average for the past two years (the date as to the quality and quantity of labour, the length of the working day and output referring equally to these two years). Deducting 2,000 calories, which are necessary for every adult person to maintain life without doing any work, we find that, previous to the revolution, 1.820 calories were needed to enable the worker to work, whereas not more than 830 callories, that is, about 46 per cent., have been available during the past two years. It is interesting to know that the average annual output of each worker presents the same picture. His work expressed in hours being only 70 per cent. of that of peace time, and the output of every hour being only two thirds of the former output, it is plain that the annual output will be just 45 per cent. of the former annual output. Consequently, allowing for the deterioration and non-repair of machinery, there should have been an even greater shrinkage but this is avidently offset by the there should have been an even greater shrinkage, but this is evidently offset by the present productivity of labour, the latter now obviously being even higher than it was now obviously being even higher than it was under the more favourable conditions of peace time. In other words, the Soviet organ, the Government of the workers, in spite of all defects of detail, is in a better position to deal with the historical position than was capitalism with the position which existed in Russia at that time. Having overthrown the master-class, the workers stand a greater strain and try their best to produce more for their own needs than they were doing under capitalism. Therefore leaving out all other considerations concernwere doing under capitalism. Therefore leaving out all other considerations concerning the country as a whole, for the regenera-tion of agriculture and of industry, the So-viet organ is more advantageous than the re-establishment of the power of the capi-talist and the landlords.

The Output.

It would, however, be a mistake to assume that Soviet Russia has already reached an output which represents 45 per cent. of the normal. We must take into consideration the decrease in territory. The Gromen mission previously mentioned has calculated the shrinkage of production which would have set in even apart from the decline in the productive of labour, i.e.. The annual pre-war production expressed in gold roubles represented four and a hall milliard roubles of agricultural products and two milliards of manufactured goods. In consequence of the reduction in size of Russia, taking into account the former productivity of labour, etc., the agricultural output should have been 3.3 milliard roubles, and that of manufactured goods one milliard. Now the actual Soviet output for the year, according to the calculations made by Gromen's committee, has amounted to about 420 million roubles, whilst agriculture amounted to two and a half milliards (the figures are in gold roubles). Thus, although the annual average output of the industrial worker amounts to 45 per cent. of the normal, Soviet Russia could not muster in 1919—20 more than 20 per cent. of the normal annual output of manufactured goods. This is the lowest limit of the shrinkage in the production reached in 1919—20 on account of Russia being torn into isolated parts by the military attacks of the imperialist bayonet and the counter-revolutionary mutineers. calculated the shrinkage of production which

Growth of Territory.

The re-union in the latter half of 1920 The re-union in the latter half of 1920 of the main outlying provinces with the centre has radically altered the situation. On the 1st January, 1920, there were in European Russia 350,000 poods of cotton. Now, on the 15th October, 1920, there are 3,050,000 poods, besides that under way from Turkestan, whilst in Turkestan itself there are even larger supplies. From the middle of 1919 to the middle of 1920, European Russia consumed no more than 20 middle of 1919 to the middle of 1920, European Russia consumed no more than 20 million poods of oil, all that there was to consume. Now we have in European Russia stocks amounting to 150 million poods of oil, brought during the summer from the Caucasus for the coming year, and there are great supplies left in the Caucasus.

Metals in Reactionary Hands.

The Donetz Basin, the chief Russian metallurgical centre, has been, for almost two years, in the hands of the reactionary Cossack and Czarist generals, and Russia has had therefore to live upon the exhausted stocks of old cast iron and scrap iron. Now, in the second half of 1920, we have been able to restore to order and reopen the coal mines which were closed during almost the whole time they were isolated from us. We have raised the output 15 to 20 per cent. the furnaces are beginning to blaze in the South after the long intervals, and the smelteries are reopened, whilst in the North, in the Moscow region, the textile works, idle so long, are again in operation. In short, The Donetz Basin, the chief Russian mein the Moscow region, the textile works, idle so long, are again in operation. In short, there is every indication that the coming year, 1921, will see a great increase in production, considerably above the 20 per cent. of the normal, with which we had to be satisfied until now. Of course, the result of this increase will be felt much later in the field of consumption, when such results will have had time to enter the channels of consumption, personal as well as industrial. sumption, personal as well as industrial.

OUR NATIONAL PROSPERITY.

By P. F. MEACHEM.

At the present time we are living under a the division of society into two classes: the one, owning the land and its contents; and the other, nothing but the power to labour. The land being essential to the well-being of all the latter class has no choice but to Since the owning-class is a non-producing class, its interests lay in preventing the producers from consuming all the wealth produced. This is effected through the commodity nature of the workers' labour power. By keeping more workers than there are jobs, the capitalists rob the workers of twothirds of the wealth produced. Under the busiest periods, work can be found for only 98 per cent. of the workers. So that under the present system there are some of the working-class always denied the only chance they have of getting an existence, namely, that of selling their labour-power to a mas-ter; not only men, but women also. I have mentioned this because it is an introduction to what is going to follow.

In the Workers' Dreatnought of November 25th, 1920, I dealt with the National Propaganda, one of the capitalist organisations, which are busily engaged in trying to hide from the workers the real cause of their poverty, namely, the private ownership

The B.E.U.

This week I am going to deal with the British Empire Union. At the Advertising Exhibition, recently held at the White City, they were giving away, in pamphlet form, some of the lies their paid speakers give out at street corners to working-class audiences. One pamphlet, "The Old War and the New," has come into my hands, and it contains some of the foulest lies ever writ-ten. Looking through it, I find quite a dukes, earls, viscounts, lords adies, out-of-work generals, colonels, the names of some of the "sane, reliable, Trade Union M.P.'s," in the role of vice-presidents, together with the name of Sir Edward Carson as president. Also, at the nd of the pamphlet, is a list of some of the five thousand greatest business houses in the British Empire who are members of the British Empire Union. Here are a few of the names: Allen and Hanburys. Ltd.; Anglo-American Oil Co., Fullers Ltd., Har rods Ltd etc all of whose interests are supposed to be identical with their employees whom they are exploiting.
On page 5 I came across this gem: "The invasion of this country by enemy aliens will be a far graver menace in the future will be a far graver menace in the ruture than it was before the war. The influx of such aliens in the past has tended to lower the standard of life in this country—morally, industrially and physically. Industrial unrest, sedition, vice of all kinds (especially the White Slave traffic), and discuss the standard of the season of the standard with the claim comment. ease, are all fostered by the alien element here." This is typical of the false state-ments this pamphlet contains. So now we know the cause of the physical, moral and intellectual poverty of the workers of this It is not due to the private ownership of the land and its contents adulterated food, shoddy clothing and bad housing; the sweated and unhealthy conditions n the mine, mill, railways, and factories.

Oh, dear, no. Not a word about this!
First of all, as to sedition. The British Empire Union should, if it is already not, be a great authority on sedition, for it has ticed in that art. Sir Edward Carson, with abinet Ministers, has given us a real live exhibition in the art of preaching se-dition, as witness the way they went about ing an Home Rule for Ireland Act.

Of course you can always preach sedition, provided that you are a member of the ruling class or a cabinet minister. Should you be so unwise as to preach se dition, and at the same time not be a cabim-et minister or a member of the ruling class, you will quickly find yourself, (like Comrades Sylvia Pankhurst, Steele and others) up in what the capitalists are pleased to term a Court of Justice (the justice being most conspicuous by its absence), and there sentenced to a term of torture called imprisonment. See what you escape by being a cabinet minister or a member of the ruling tellectual degeneration. In order to obtain some idea of these conditions, we will examine the progress made in wealth production and invention during the last one hundred

Increase of Wealth.

In 1812 the national wealth of this country, in shipping, railways, merchandise, houses and furniture was estimated at £450,000,000. In 1888 the total for these items had increased to £2,969,000; and in 1904 this total had increased to £3,790,000. In his well-known work, "Riches and Poverty," Sir L. Chiozza Money estimates the total national wealth of the United Kingdom at £11,413,000, possessed by 1,250,000 rich families and 3,750,000 middle-class familes out of a population of 43,000,000 Here is the cause of the poverty of the workers—the unequal distribution of the pri-

In the British Dominions Year Book for 1919, Lord Leverhulme bears out the statement as to the unequal distribution of wealth. Listen to this, you O.B.E. speakers. "When we remember that nine-tenths of the wealth of the United Kingdom, and probably of many other countries, belongs to one-tenth of the people, and that one-tenth of the wealth only is the portion of nine-tenths of the people, we get an idea of the scope there is for adjustment of conditions and opportunities

Dear me! 1 should think so, too! Think of the thousands of inventions made during the last century, facilitating increased p duction and reducing the time employed producing the various needs of life. Who has reaped the benefit? Those who own the means whereby the workers live? Yes! Side by side with the increase of the means of wealth production and distribution, the lot of the wealth producers is becoming worse in proportion to the increase. Yet the B.E.U. says it is the aliens who are the people who in the past have tended to lower the physical standard of the workers. they mean-the German, French, Russian, and the workers of the remaining countries The alien is the capitalist.

Decreasing Physical Standard.

Bearing in mind the facts relating to the increase of wealth, we will examine for a short time the physical conditions of the

In a work, "The Wastage of Child Life," by J. Johnston, M.D. (Edin.), published in 1908, in Chapter I, on "National Degeneration," I find the following facts relating to recruits who have presented themlselves for the army. Bearing in mind that the largest part of the army is drawn from the ranks of the working-classupplied give us some idea of a condition of the workers. In the "Daily Chronicle" of February 28th, 1920, there is an article on the National Service Medical Board's Report. This is an extract: "Out of 2.500,000 men examined between October 31st, 1917, and November, 1918, only thirty-eight per cent. could be regarded up to the full normal standard of health- and strength for their age, and more than ten per cent. were any form of military service." In other words, only one man in three was found to be normally healthy, and one man in ten was a physical wreck. These facts, conwas a physical wreat. These faces, continues the statement, provide the most saddening evidence in support of the statement that we are a C 3 nation. Of the men examined, 871,769 were found to be full normal standard, 546,276 suffered from partial disabilities, 756,859 had marked physical disabilities, and 250.280 were totally and permanently unfit.

The number of youths found to be totally and permanently unfit for any form of military service was twice as large as it should Salford, for instance, out of 1,887 cases, only eight were free from any disability, old at forty." Men at forty years of age were suffering from senile decay.

It is not the German, French, Italiand the other workers of foreign lands, the B.E.U. suggests. All the workers ery land have a common interest, i.e. get rid of the cosmopolitan gang of capi-ists that are making this world an hell live in. Yes! It is the aliens who are ponsible for this; the British, French, the capitalists of every land, who, irective of the religion, colour, race, or political opinions of the workers of the e capitalist is the only alien the Commu-

Yet is the alien who is degrading our stand-del morality! Yes! The capitalists!

Then fancy expecting to develop the in-llect of the mass of the people under such tten conditions already mentioned. Yes! the conditions are ady mentioned. The see want education, in order to develop the tellect. Yet to-day there is an economy unt being worked up in "The Times," hich is calling upon the Government to conomise with regard to Education, which sts £1 5s. per head of the population the British Isles. Yet, on the other nd, the Navy, Army, and Air Forces (des active institutions) are costing £5 6s. 8d. r head, and not a word for economy here. big Navy programme is being advocated.
ne cost of a modern battleship is estinated at £9,000,000. Some economy this, specially from the B.E.U., which is shriekg over a lower standard of intelligence have mentioned this because in "Th Times" there appeared an appeal for £250,000 for the B.E.U. funds. The B.E.U. stands for maintaining the old Two-Power andard of the British Navy.

Next, as to the White Slave Traffic. mentioned in the beginning of this article that there are always a number of men and women denied the only chance they have obtaining a living under the present system, i.e. that of selling their labour-power a master. Is it therefore surprising that riven by hunger, women sell themselves up in the streets. Yet the B.E.U. would have believe that it is the alien who is res-nsible for this. Yes. It is the aliens, e capitalists, in whose interests this sure captains, in whose interests this sur-us army of labour (the unemployed) is ept. When, on page 11, the B.E.U. re-at the deliberate lie that women and girls we been made common property in Russia, ider the Bolsheviki, they should also bear mind the women who are driven to a if of prostitution by being denied the op-portunity to obtain a decent living under capitalism. Are not these being made com-mon property in free (?) England?

Industrial Unrest.

Then lastly as to Industrial unrest. Who responsible for this but the members of the Federation of British Industries who upport the National Propaganda agitation r increased production.

Many members of the Committee of Na tional Propaganda are members of the British Empire Union. We have had this proaganda; and when the workers have in-reased production and filled the factories with various goods, they have been turned out of the factories to starve until the own ers can find markets to dispose of the com-

Not content with their factories filled up with goods, and the workers who have pro duced starving because they cannot sell their labour-power to obtain this money payment, wages, so as to buy these goods, the capitalists are charging famine prices in the midst of plenty, and then they are com-plaining of industrial unrest. The worker who is content with this state of affairs, and is gulled by the propaganda of this kind, deserves all he gets.

The B.E.U. also believes in Protection.

In its foreign policy (d) it says that no dumped foreign goods should be permitted in the British Isles. No foreign competitor and those holding the home supplies of various commodities can charge famine prices for their goods. This means bigger profits, all for the workers' benefit, they try to kid us. The B.E.U. knows no class, no party, no creed. Its members labour not for any personal advantage. I ask any unbiassed reader, after reading the names of its vice-presidents and executive committee, and the name of the five thousand greatest are members of the B.E.U.: and, that in connection with the vice-presidents and the executive committee of the B.E.U., the B. E.U. represents, in the shape of companies on whose Boards these persons sit, the large sum of over £140,000,000 paid-up capital—after reading these facts, can any-one truthfully say that the B.E.U. knows ist organisation, out for the capitalists' benefit; therefore the workers should view with suspicion all statements made in their Press and by their speakers.

The B.E.U. stands for starvation, unemployment, and all its attendant evils. Cowards that they are—when they come out to street corners with closed platforms, making false statements, and then denying their op-ponents their platform to refute their lies they have not the common decency to openly oppose the attempts of the workers to obtain better conditions. This is the freedom of speech they believe in.

Evidently the intellectual and moral degeneracy has even affected the B.E.U., judging by the tone of the pamphlet.

There is no way out of the maze of capi-

A REVIEW by FRED TYLER.

The British public, we are told, are waiting for real substantial information about

The Left Wing of the I.L.P.

As one of the signatories of the Left Wing, I.L.P. Programme, might I draw your attention to three facts that have apparently escaped

Firstly, we have no time for "lukewarm elements" or "doubters," any more than we have for those who chatter the mystic Muscovite jargon to the exclusion of every attempt to translate Sovietism into British phraseology and

Secondly, we write "the use of Parliamentary institutions for propaganda and also for the formal endorsement of the measures put ward by the workers' organisations for the destruction of Capitalism and the demolition of the Capitalst State."

The words I have italicised must surely have eluded your attention or else your understanding. We have no more intention than have you of using Parliamentary institutions to build up and t) conduct Communism. We advocate the use of Parliamentary institutions for destructive purposes, and we recognise as much as do you, limited is their utility. Unfortunately, the workers do not, and therefore, we are prepared to show them by practical examples and illustrations, even if we must needs inviolate our emotional satisfaction in the process, how useess it is to credit the professions of bourgeois

Moreover, we are realists, and we propose to use the shield of legality until our organisation is adequate to dispense with formalities or until abandoning their own constitution and proving for us the assertions which we cannot otherwise drive home to the masses.

Thirdly, the Left Wing of the I.L.P. accept the discipline and the instructions of the Ex Committee of the Third International and for that reason, remains in a hostile environ ment, doing incessant propaganda inside the organisation whose leaders it is required to expose, to discredit and, if possible, to eject.

Do not worry, little flock, we are as much Bolshevik as the Third International. We are disciplined and we fight our enemies at close quarters-inside their own lines.

Yours fraternally J. T. WALTON NEWBOLD.

In reply to Comrade Walton Newbold, we must still maintain that the passages dealing with Parliamentarism in the I.L.P. Left Wing Manifesto are not fully in accord with the Thoses adopted at the Second Congress of the Third

The Left Wing Manifesto says that the workers' political action is :-

"to cause the governing classes continually to throw out sops and make concessions

The I.L.P. includes within the scope of politi cal action, the use of Parliamentary institutions for propaganda and the formal endorsement of the measures put forward by the workers' organisations for the destruction of Capitalism and the Capitalist State."

Again, under method, the Manifesto states :-The only useful purpose in participating in Parliamentary action is solely with a view to promoting revolutionary propaganda and the destruction of Capitalism and the Class

State. Also:—
"The best means of effecting a Social Revolution is for the workers to prepare them-selves to take over the industrial machine."

These passages, taken literally, seem to open the door, on the one hand to Parliamentary Reformism, and on the other, to industrialism, which fails to realise that revolution is civil war, and that the class which sets out to obtain the power of government, cannot stop at seizing the factories, but must also obtain control of the achinery of Government and the armed forces of the State. In short, to say :-

"the best means of effecting the Social Revo-lution i for the organised workers to prepare themselves to take over the industrial hould be altered to:

the only way of effecting the Social Revolution is for the workers to take over the power of Government and the machinery of production, distribution and exchange.

But let us compare the passages in the Left Wing Manifesto, which we have cited above, with those from the theses on Parliamentarism, adopted by the Second Congress of the Third

The only form of proletarian dictatorship is a Republic of Soviets." Parliamentarism is a definite form of State order. Therefore it can in no way be a form of Communist society."

Parliamentarism cannot be a form of proletarian government during the transition period between the dictatorship of the bourgeoisie and that of the proletariat a parliamentary division of authority is needless and injurious to it.

"The bourgeois Parliaments . . . cannot be won over to the proletariat, any more than can the bourgeois order in general.

Therefore, Comrade Newbold, Parliament cannot be used for the "formal endorsement of the measures put forward by the workers' organisations for the destruction of Capitalism and the demolition of the Capitalist State."

Parliament will not lend itself to this purpose; it is not your heart we are mistrusting, Comrade Newbold, but your head!

"Parliament cannot be won over by the proletariat," rightly says the thesis, but if it could be won over and made to endorse measures "for the destruction of Capitalism and the demolition of the Capitalist State," surely the time would arrived to abolish Parliament and to replace thy the Soviets. But hear the thesis:-

"The task of the proletariat consists in blowing up the whole machinery of the bourgeoisie, in destroying it and all the Parliamentary institutions with it."

Civil war is war.

The Communist Party enters such institution (Parliament), not for the purpose of or-ganisation work, but in order to blow up the whole bourgeois machinery and the Parliament

It is not the Capitalist State that the thesis nstructs the Communist Members of Parliament to destroy, but Parliamentarism. The destruc-tion of Capitalism cannot be accomplished by formal endorsement in Parliament.

"This work within the Parliaments, which consists chiefly in making revolutionary propaganda from the Parliamentary tribune, the denunciation of enemies, the ideological uniting of the masses, etc."

We find nothing here of securing sops and oncessions to the workers' organisations, or of formal endorsements of measures put forward by

"The elective campaign must be carried on, not in the sense of obtaining a maximum of votes, but in that of a revolutionary mobilisation of the masses around the mottoes of the proletarian revolution."

Would Comrade Newbold's last election address pass this test? Since he claims to be disciplined, we advise him to send it to Moscow for endorsement before using it again.

"The regular proposal of demonstrative law-projects, not for them to be passed by the bourgeois majority, but for the purpose of propaganda. agitation and organisation, must be carried on under the direction of the Party and its Central Committee."

There is no talk of contemplation of form

Has the Communist Party of Great Britai out this clause into practice? There is still t'm for Col. Malone to introduce a few Bills

Comrade Newbold's phrase about th workers' failure to recognise the limitations Parliamentary institutions were intended suggest that the clause about using Parliam Capitalism was put in deference to ordi working-class prejudices, that would be disastrous blunder. In regard to this, let us Second Congress o the Communist Internation o adopted by the Congress:—
"To admit the idea of a voluntary su mission of the capitalists to the will of majority of the exploited—by a peaceful formist passage to Socialism—is not only give proof of an extreme petty bourgeois d headedness, but is a direct deceiving of the workmen, a disguising of capitalist wage slavery; a concealment of the truth."

We regret that the I.L.P. Left Wing ha boycotted the term "Soviet" in its Manifest which has now become thoroughly Anglicis and is generally understood. The word Parlis ment has an alien origin also, it should be r membered. When we hear of "attempts to ranslate Sovietism into British phraseology an British practice, we scent Scheidemann Longuet—Macdonaldism. Beware of it Co rade Newbold, the disease is as catching as measles! At the same time we trust that and the other Left Wing I.L.P. comrades take our criticism in good part. We welcom your existence, but we warn you that you have wily set of fellows to deal with, and it behove you to be clear and courageous in your ov you to be clear and thought and propaganda. RICHARD KEIR.

REVOLUTIONARY EDUCATION. ISLWYN NICHOLAS, Gen. Sec. of the International Proletarian Scho

During the last few weeks the Yello Press has been conducting a heavy attack against the young revolutionary movemen in this country. As a youngster, I realist the small amount of interest taken by adu comrades in the great task of educating young comrades so that they may be eabled to understand the ideals which are dear to us. Like the adult movement, young movement centres round two m ist Sunday Schools stand for reform. the International Proletarian School ment stands for revolution. Therefore, now see why the I.P.S.M. is attacked the capitalist gutter-press. How many accomrades know what the I.P.S.M. is, what it stands for? The purpose o article is to answer this urgent and it tant question. Many years ago severa rades left the Socialist Sunday School disgusted with the reformist nature teachings. T. Anderson and a few comrades inaugurated that militant sation known as the I.P.S.M. The anisation has for its object the following to teach the children of the working of the absolute necessity for the complete the absolute necessity for the complete avoiding of the present political state, and the inauguration of a Socialist Industrial Republic through the dictatorship of the proletariat. It was named the Proletarian School Movement because the name man ne distinction from the Utopian. It is eft wing of the Young Socialist movem is affiliated to the Communist Young 's International and to the Red or Thiernational, which goes to prove how mi ant the movement is

REVOLUTIONARY HEROES. By N. BUKARIN.

TYBOR SAMUELLI.

This name should be and will become familiar to every proletarian.

When the Soviet Republic had been overthrown in Hungary, one of the leaders, a young man of inestimable worth, found his death on the frontier. We do not know the precise circumstances in which this valuable life was sacrificed. According to the official statement Comrade Samuelli shot himself through the head, when arrested by the gendarmes of Renner and the Second International, by those who had shortly before been the gendarmes of Charles of Hapsburg. The story may be true. Samuelli was a man of strong, proud, and independent temperament, and may well have felt that after the overthrow of the Soviet power, it did not become him to fall alive into the hands of his enemies. But there is another possibility. Perhaps Renner's gendarmes are of stouter mettle than Noske's. It may be that Zeiz and Bauer are stronger men than Scheidemann and Bart. the German executioners could assasinate Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebnecht "when they were attempting to run away," is there any reason to suppose that the Austrian executioners were not competent to settle accounts with Tybor Samuelli?

The proletariat of Hungary should be proud of this figure. The savage hatred, the inextinguishable rancour, which the Hungarian bourgeoisie cherished towards Samuelli is easy to understand. He was distinguished by an inflexible will, by exceptional cool-headedness, and by indefatigable energy. In addition, he was a brilliant writer.

Like Bela Kun, he graduated as a revolutionist in Russia, and it was in Russia that the undersigned made Samuelli's acquaintance. Before the war, he was on the staff of Néprava, the central organ of the Hungarian Social Democracy. In the course of the war, in which he took part as a commissioned officer, he was taken prisoner. He was sent to Siberia and to Manchuria, where ne had to live under abominable conditions Often, when seriously ill, he was compelled to work in the marshes or the mines, standing knee deep in water. He attempted to escape, but was arrested on the Swedish frontier. At length he was restored to freedom by the Revolution.

Thereupon Samuelli spread his pinions like a young eagle. Seldom do we meet men who display such whole-souled devotion to the cause which is now shaping a new era in history. One of his characteristics, the hall-mark of revolutionist, was that he never disdained any task, the most difficult, the most unpleasant, and the least in the limelight. With equal fervour, he would devote himself to propaganda, would write newspaper articles, would take up arms to help in the suppression of counter-revolutional revolts, would edit pamphlets, work on conmittees, speak at meetings, or draw up schemes of work for the Comrades. At any moment he was ready to pull the trigger of his rifle, which was never far from his hand. A man of great physical courage, he was always on the qui vive.

we need it badly, morally and finan-we need it badly, morally and finan-y. I appeal to every real Communist apport us (also Communist parties), in country. In conclusion, let me ask you, it not waste of energy to preach and a Socialism to the workers and at the Obituary notices are seldom free from exaggeration, but it would be difficult to exaggerate where Samuelli is concerned. As I write, I seem to see his beloved figure, wearied by overwork, yet none the less vibrant with energy; I see the tired look in his thoughtful eyes, and the gentle irony of his smile. He slept no more than four or five hours out of the twenty-four, e time leave your children in the hands ersons to teach them capitalist or class action? Start a school in your district devoting the remainder of his time to the Revo-

Circumstances have brought me in contact with men of all kinds, and among them I have known revolutionists in nearly every land. Rarely, however, have I met anyone with so charming a personality as Samuelli; seldom have I known anyone who was so good a comrade. All his life he was a model of Communist chivalry.

He died young. Had he lived longer, beyond question his richly endowed nature would have indergone even fuller development. But never shall we forget what this man, during his short life, did for the proletariat. In the transitional period between two epochs, his figure takes its place among our martyrs, as a symbol of militant Bolshevism, we are told in this remarkable and strictly truthful book, was born in London in 1903. Lenin (Bolshevik) and Martoff (Menshevik) were both present at a conference of the Russian Social-Democratic Labour Party in London in 1903 (possibly in the deep cellar of Sweeney Todd).

Thus in our midst the plot against pro erty began. Later in 1916 and 1917 we perty began. Later in 1916 and 1917 we learn that the Bolsheviki advocated the fraternisation of the Russian and German-Austrian armies on the Eastern front, to bring about the fall of the German-Austrian capitalist classes. In the next breath we are informed that the Bolshevike were the agents of Germany, leading Russia to ruin.
And so on, through chapters of loose thought, savoured with wilful lies.
And after dealing with finance, and the Russian debt to Britain, in a clever, cunning way, seeking to imply that non-payment of the debt was detrimental to the British workers, also with the forced labour stunt, e tot he final point—the menace of world

We trust that all will listen to the sober wisdom of Raine and Luboff.

When out of work, homeless, starving, ragged, and hopeless, we must at all costs light Bolshevism, because Bolshevism means that Raine, Luboff, Churchill, and all fit and healthy amongst the mass of the peo-ple must, in order to obtain food, clothing, and shelter, assist in making it. We, as anti-Bolsheviks, recognise that work—hard, useful work—is only fit for the "likes of us," and only for the "likes of us."

Otherwise should we think that all, des pite rank, should toil, we are in danger of becoming "Bolshevik."

LENIN'S NEW BOOK. A REVIEW BY E. E. SWIFT.

The education in Communism of any-body who has not read Lenin's new book, 'Left Wing Communism," is deficient. There cannot be thirty Britain's 30,000,000 adults who know and tonderstand the British situation more thor traighly than, or even as thoroughly as, less enin claims: "That the experience of dem Russian Revolutionary Movement, Mough its last century's 50 years' following of every shade of European and American revolutionary theory, and its subsequent 15 years' practice of every form of revolutionary activity, legal, illegal, peaceful, stor-my, open, underground, embracing smal circles, and large masses, parliamentary and terrorist, is of unequalled richness" (p. 12). "And that the causes of the people's confidence in the Bolsheviks were the Bolsheviks' class-war spirit and devotion, their strategy, based on leading the masses to learn by experience" (p. 11).

Lenin contends that propaganda is totally insufficient, and experience indispensions. sable, to make the workers of each country realise that its Labour Party cannot avail

That "the closest connection between the Communist Party and the Trades Unions
... the welding of leaders, class, masses into one indissoluble whole," is necessary
(pp. 23, 25). That "with the vanguard alone victory is impossible. It would be alone victory is impossible. It would be not only foolish, but criminal, to throw the vanguard into the final struggle so long as the whole class has not taken up a position either of direct support to the vann-guard, or of benevolent neutrality" (p 72). A Communist Party of nineteen governs the Communist Party of 611,000 members, from annual conference to annual conference:—which C.P. rests upon the Trades Unions of 4,000,000 members (pp. 22, 23).

That "not to work within reactionary ties, attacks, insults, cavils, and persecu-"must resort to strategy, adroitness, legal proceedings, reticence, and subter-uge," in order to permeate the Trade The eagerness of the ions (pp. 37, 39). s-leaders to drive out Communists ould show that, so far from running out, Communists must not submit to be driven out. a bloc would be treason" (p. 67).

He reasonably argues that the masses are not doctrinaires, and that Englishmen can understand such bloc-formation, as Russians could understand (p. 69), and whose formation he sketches on p. 53. He fully anticipated the refusal of the Labour Party form a bloc. He wanted the offer made y the Communist Party, that the Labour arty, by its refusal, might show itself up. Great Britain should monopolise the credit of this showing up of the Labour Party.

That as much as mis-leaders need to be mistrusted and sacked, so much real class war leaders need to be trusted and obeyed, if only because of the necessary rapidity of the shifting from legal to illegal measures, which makes consultation between generals which makes consultation between generals and rank and file a suicidally slow proceeding. The parliamentary arena is a capital sifter-out of incapable and unwilling "leaders" (p. 48). "Shall we," Lenin asks the no-compromisers, "on the difficult ascent of an unexplored and heretofore incomplete meantains recovered. accessible mountain, renounce beforehand the idea that we might have to go by zigzags?" (p. 52). "You wish to create a new society, and yet you fear the difficulties of forming within a reactionary parfiament (and reactionary Trades Unions) a sound group (and groups) composed of convinced, devoted, heroic Communists! Is not this

British Parliamentary Communists have never put forward Lenin's case for parlia-mentarism. Hence I infer that they are not the utterly class-war, devoted, clear-sighted party that Lenin desires. He also wishes that the Western Communists who give praise to Bolshevik theory, would give study, likewise, to Bolshevik activities and adaptations, and the reasons for them.

Undoubtedly Lenin is right as regards work within Trades Unions. But is he also rights as regards compelling the Labour Party to take office? Were Marx alive, I do not believe he would now hold that Socialism is inevitable. He proved the inevitable collapse of capitalism. But he never proved its non-succession by another form of exploitative society. And he believed the whole working class would revolt. But, every large transfer of the control of t Trades Unions means to abandon the backward workers "to what De Leon called "the labour lieutenants of the capitalist class."

December 18, 1920

That being so, shall we say to the workthe Liberals and Tories who live on you won't give you a good life. We tell you also that the labour lieutenants of the capitalist class are either incapable of securing better conditions even for the strongly canised workers, or at best are able to cure them for the strongly organised work ers only, and not for the weakly organised and unorganised. But you do not believe this. Therefore we urge you to return the Labour Party to power and convince your selves by seeing—for seeing is your only road to conviction—that either they are in-capable of bettering even the strongly or-ganised workers, or able to better the con-ditions of the strongly organised workers only. We call on you to avoid the futilit of boycotting the ballot-box, and the futilit of spoiling your ballot papers with true remarks about Capitalism, the State, the L bour Party, the Soviets, the Bolsheviks, the Red Army. We call on you to return the Labour Party, that you may learn to know them by their deeds when in power. Show that the organised cannot have a better under exploitation, or can have it only help of the unorganised. And then shall call on every unorganised and weakl organised worker, and every non-dastard or ganised worker, to join up for the final figh for the victory of the whole of the workers! Yes, I think we must give this counse even though dangerous. For I am convince that propaganda is totally inadequate, an experience indispensable to conviction, ev en as Lenin contends.

At elections we could give this strong ironical support of the Labour Party with out spending funds on sending a few Communists to Parliament. Four Communist members, say for Tonypandy, Covent Manchester and Glasgow, are the utmost see any value for. Why? Because parl mentary procedure and the boycott by apitalist Press of Communists—and the s not one Communist daily paper—make mpted propaganda from Parliament an y. The advertisement of their being eated, and re-elected by convinced el and serving the movement outside Par ment after re-election, is all the good them that I can see. I wish Lenin wor specify the services he conceives they cor rendure under Parliamentary procedure a the Press boycott.

Lenin is a Machiavellian; but he is u truly called an apportunist. An opportunis one who waits near the harbour for own interest or the interest of his c Lenin's book is a golden book i velation of how huge' is our task of organing the workers for Communism.

South Shields

The Secretary reports that four economic classes are established in the district for the miners, many of whom have a good grasp of the Communist position, but do not yet realise the necessity for forming a fighting class organisation apart from the idustrial organisations.

The experiences of our comrades in Russia has shown conclusively that the Class War against the bourgeoisie must be waged on all fronts, and not merely on the industrial field, and that the class-conscious pro-letarians need to organise for class action among the co-operatives, for educating the young to Communism, and to spread the orinciples of Communism and Sovietism far outside the Trade Union lodge, and in many

No doubt when this is realised by our Durham Comrades, the South Shields Branch of our Party will grow to that strength and effectiveness that is necessary to effectively wage the class struggle. BETWEEN OURSELVES. By L. A. MOTLR.

I went to the White City the other week. I would not have gone, but my Uncle Fitzy—otherwise Fitzarthur—whisked me away in his Rolls Royce. It may be explained, Henry, that a Rolls Royce is a motor car; you will not perhaps have known one intimately unless it has biffed you in the behind when you are crossing a street in a fog you could almost strike matches on. Most people—and they are ignorant—call all motor cars just motor cars, but amongst the real elect, it is good form to say Rolls Royce—if you have one, or if your Uncle Fitzy has one. This is to distinguish you from the common cheap-jack who rattles around in a Ford.

The White City isn't very white except in the whitewashy parts, and even these are about as clean as the yellow press. It was a Publicity Exhibition that was on. A publicist is a fellow who runs around telling people what really good stuff you have got. He is the fellow that puts up those posters about unbreakable gas-mantles, which fall to pieces as soon as you have followed the last item of the "Directions for Use."

My Uncle Fitzy has some goods to sell, but it is not easy to sell them. The pulicity expert heartily agreed with Uncle Fitzy and offered to tell him all about it. He said that what Uncle Fitzy wanted was a real publicity agent who knew how many lines of type go to the shilling and how many Henry Dubbs there were in Britain. It was quite simple. You had something to sell. Didn't matter what. Even if the public didn't want it. It was bound to sell. The agent said so, and he had it all over his circular that he was the best man in his line, and he ought to know, sure.

You just send out beautifully-printed circulars with a photo of yourself using the article which was being pushed. So simple, a child could use it on the cat when Ma wasn't looking. You just went on for four pages, to tell people that they weren't properly civilised or even alive. S unless they had "Fitzarthur's Flossy Flops, 18 which were a certain cure for indigestion and bunions. Then you put up some nice posters of healthy people who owed the colour on their cheeks to "Flossy Flops," and the printer's ink.
Then people were sure to buy. It was, said that agent, a sort of Long-Distance Hypnotism.

Thousands of keen business men were usingir the new methods of Push & Co., the advertishthe—pardon, publicity experts. A business thrin, didn't use publicity wasn't a business. It was the bust. You just invested your money in postwers instead of improving "Flossy Flops" so trys of they would be less explosive to the indigesti Then that which you cast upon the waters, came back to you after many days.

This convinced Uncle Fitzy that the agent knew his religion, and that sealed it. There is really nothing like a few words from the Good Book, to seal a bargain. Unless it's a cigar. And much as I disliked the way the agent spoke of the public as a kind of purse with a hole in it, I admired his taste in cigars. When you have nothing else to put in your pocket, it's a good idea to put your pride in it. In this case I shoved it in my mouth and lit up.

Uncle came away with a feeling that he had as good as the price of a new Rolls Royee in his pocket. And I came away with an armful of free literature that—saving for its sentiments was a thing of beauty and a joy for ever-until the next time.

Anyway, when I got home and turned them over and dug up a few pamphlets issued by our own cause, it seemed to me that the movement was going about it in the wrong way. Publicity agents spend the money first and send it out in the shape of two- and three-colour circulars on paper that almost melts in your heart. And as for the type, it is big enough to read without having to light an extra lamp or fiddling with the gas-mantle. And it pays, sure.

The movement prints on paper that no respectable barber would use in shaving, and then charges double for it.

What we want is not a Lenin, but an Uncle Fitzarthur. Maybe both. But Uncle Fitzarthur, anyway.

NATIONAL SECRETARY'S NOTES.

The Trafalgar Square Demonstration

In spite of the snow and fog, an enthusi-astic party of dichards gathered at the Square on Sunday for the mass protest meeting arranged on behalf of our sentenced propagandists.

Comrade E. Thomas acted as chairman, and was followed by Comrades Victor BeachamV, Harry Pollitt, Arthur Siffleet, E. W. Cant, and Melvina Walker. Comrades D. Maguire and R. Bishop, who were also in attendance, were unable to speak owing to closure being applied by the Sunset regulations. Comrade Pollitt gave some very telling extracts from speeches of ex-cabinet ministers and others, dealing specially with lamp-posts, in which he proved that our Comrade Malone had most excellent precedent for the language he used about lamp-posts and cabinet ministers. The examinaposts and cabinet ministers. The examin tion of our Comrade Pollitt's speech show prove very entertaining reading for the men of M.I.5. at Scotland Yard.

Cash to the amount of £4 Is. 8d. was donated to the plinth for the benefit of the Defence and Maintenance Fund of our sentenced comrades. This was a splendid sum in view of the absentees owing to the weather, and there is little doubt that had we had fine weather, at least £20 would have

The Defence Fund.

These who stayed away on Sunday are asked to send along their donations for Comrades Steele and Harvey to Edgar T. Whitehead, 8, Sinclair Gardens, London, W. 14. Before our victimised comrades are through with this business and able to again support their dependants, a great deal of cash will be needed.

Bro. S. Williams, of Wandsworth, has set a splendid example by issuing an appeal sheet to his workmates: "Fellow Workbates,—I am making this appeal to you in my own initiative with the object of trying to help the dependants of Bro. J. Steele, ing to help the dependants of Bro. J. Steele, a Communist speaker, who is a sincere exponent of Socialism, and is under sentence of four months hard labour for repeating eme words of ex-Colonel Malone, M.P., utlessed at the Albert Hall." This appeal rederited in an addition of 5s. 6d. to the funds. Ifeel confident that if all those who have ofard and benefited by our comrades' fearres propaganda in Hydge Park and elseyeere during the last months would show tiol same spirit of class solidarity, Comrade mysle would at least have the satisfaction

COMMUNIST UNITY ORGANISATION Manifesto on Revolutionary Unity.

To all Communists.

Comrades,—We address this statement and appeal to you in the hope of clearing away for all time those differences of opinion which have served to keep us apart in the past, thereby preventing the consolidation of the revolutionary forces in this country. this country.

solidation of the revolutionary forces in this country.

It is not our purpose either to explain or justify those differences, but simply to record the fact that our task has been much simplified by the decisions of the recent Congress of the Third International. Those decisions prescribe for the world movement the basis upon which such efforts as ours should be founded, and constitute a clear and definite demand that a united Communist Party shall be established in Britain.

To this end, the following organisations have assented to the proposal for the formation of a united Party, and have elected representatives on the above committee: Communist Party of Great Britain, Communist Labour Party, Communist Party (B. S.T.I.), National Shop Stewards and Workers' Committee (in a consultative capacity), and the Left Wing group of the I.L.P. (in an informative capacity).

This committee has set about its task, and has held its preliminary conference. We appreciate that the heartiest co-operation is essential if the united Party is to contain all the features which mark a real, live revolutionary organisation.

contain all the features which mark a real, live, revolutionary organisation. To this end lwe seek much assistance, and urge that all groups and bodies not yet in touch with the proceedings should communicate at once the proceedings should communicate at once with the sacretary, when the fullest information will be upplied. In the meantime, we would counsel the closest observance of what is being done, thus ensuring that when the National Convention is called, about the end of January, the results will more than justify the hopes we place in that convention.—(Signed), Arthur Macmanus and Albert Inkpin, Communist Party of Great Britain; J. V. Leckie and John McLean, Communist Labour Party; Dick Beech and T. Watkins, Communist Party (B.S.T.I.)

All communications and enquiries respecting the Communist Unity Convention should be addressed to Albert Inkpin, 21a. Maiden Lane, Strand, London, W.C. 2.

COMMUNIST UNITY.

In accordance with instructions issued by the Central Executive Committee of the Communist International for the establish-ment of a united Communist Party in Briment of a united Communist Party in Britain that would include all elements adhering to the Communist International, a preliminary meeting for this purpose was held in Manchester on Saturday and Sunday last. Those present were Arthur Macmanus and Albert Inkpin, representing the Communist Party of Great Britain; J. V. Leckie and John McLean, representing the Communist Labour Party; and Dick Beech and T.
