Dear Miss Shackey.

You will remember that you wrote to me on the 14th February, in a way which I took hopefully. I don't want to importune you about your plans; but I have at the moment two possibilities, which I must decide upon almost immediately. Can you let me know whether you have decided to keep your house, and if ~~you~~^{so} whether you have come to any conclusion about letting the top two storeys?

As I do not know whether you are at home or not, and as time presses me, I shall take the liberty of telephoning tomorrow morning, hoping that you will excuse my haste.

And if you do want to be those upper stays, I should like very much to look at them at your convenience.

Yours sincerely
