“The magnificent three-tier wedding cake and récherché refreshments were supplied by ‘VIOLETTE,’ ‘The Lady Cake-Maker.’”
—Court Journal.

“I happened to get into conversation with the chef to Her late Majesty, who was one of the judging Committee. He particularly drew my attention to the beautifully finished cakes of ‘VIOLETTE,’ which he considered to be the best in the show.”—Northern Whig.

“The next difficulty was the entrée.

“Gwendolen was positive that it was an impossibility.

“‘But, she added, ‘if you had one from “THE LADY CAKE-MAKER,” Augusta might condescend to heat it up.’”—Punch, 1902.

“‘VIOLETTE’S’ lovely cakes created quite a sensation. Her wedding cake won a Gold Medal. It was in three tiers, and splendidly ornamented with freehand piping.”—“Madge’s Letter.”—Truth.

“‘VIOLETTE’ was the most conspicuously successful competitor in the confectionery section. To her exhibit of artistic confectionery fell the honor of a Gold Medal.”—Daily Telegraph.

“The most tempting specimens of sweetmeats were exhibited by ‘VIOLETTE,’ who is gaining quite a reputation for continental pâtisserie and decorated cakes for teas.”—Daily Telegraph.

“On the ‘table d’honneur’ amid experts of the opposite sex, two ladies trading as ‘VIOLETTE,’ had a place of honor.”—Daily Graphic.

“‘VIOLETTE,’ ‘The Lady Cake-Maker,’ executed a large order in the way of providing the peeresses and others with sandwiches to sustain them during the long hours they spent in the Abbey. These were worthy of the occasion, and were neatly packed into pretty little boxes with ‘E.R.’ and ‘Violette’ on each lid in silver lettering.”—Northern Whig.

“The exhibit of ‘VIOLETTE,’ ‘The Lady Cake-Maker,’ created quite a sensation, everyone flocking to see the dainty edibles, and on all sides there were questionings of ‘Who is Violette?’ The answer whispered round ‘An artist who was obliged to give up painting because of delicacy of the eyes,’ seemed to satisfy most questioners, who said, ‘That accounts for it!’ Meaning they are beautiful and dainty in the extreme, as was also the entrée, sweet and savoury and the petit fours pâtisserie, so temptingly arranged under the shadow, as it were, of ‘Violette’s’ triumph in wedding-cakes, which won a Gold Medal. In fact, this clever cake-maker has taken a Gold Medal on each occasion when she has exhibited.”—Herts and Essex Observer.
