MORBIDITY STATISTICS FROM GENERAL PRACTICE
SECOND NATIONAL STUDY
1970-71

This report, the second national study of morbidity from general practice, contains information tabulated in a similar manner to that in the report of the first national study conducted in 1955/56. The statistics relating to consultations, persons consulting and episodes of illness with additional information about referrals and place of consultation, are based on the statistical records of 300,000 patients supplied by over 100 general practitioners; the study, method and some aspects of validation are also described.

Changes to be introduced in 1974

Following a comprehensive review of the whole range of information published by OPCS, some of the existing publications are to be replaced by new ones aimed at a quicker release of information and a division of statistics into subject groups. Most of the statistics at present published will continue to be published but in a different style or within a different cover.

The two large volumes at present published annually, Registrar General's Statistical Review of England and Wales, part I and part II are to be replaced by a series of smaller volumes each dealing with one topic or a number of closely related topics. The volumes relating to 1973 statistics will be the last to appear in the present form.

Further details of the new OPCS publications can be obtained from:-

Information Branch (Dept. A)
Office of Population Censuses and Surveys
St. Catherine's House

London WC2 6JP

2. Additional tables and data

The following unpublished items are available for reference at the Office of Population Censuses and Surveys, or copies can be supplied on payment:-

- (i) Live births and stillbirths separately by sex, legitimacy and month of occurrence for each region, conurbation and local authority area in England and Wales.
- (ii) Live births and stillbirths separately by place of confinement, age and parity of mother for each county borough and administrative county in England and Wales.

3. Populations

The estimates of population appearing in this volume and described as 'home', 'total' or 'civilian' have the following content:

- Home population* - the population, of all types, actually in England and Wales, distributed by area according to residence.
- Total population* - the home population plus members of H.M. Forces belonging to England and Wales and serving overseas but minus the Forces of other countries temporarily in England and Wales.
- Civilian population* - the total population minus members of H.M. Forces belonging to England and Wales at home or overseas.

In order not to count either deployment of H.M. Forces between home and overseas stations, or their recruitment or demobilisation, as migration, each intercensal national population estimate starts with the total population at the date of the previous estimate. To this is added natural increase and the net result of migration into and out of the civilian population (which may differ slightly from the balance of intending migrants derived from the International Passenger Survey, etc.). This gives the new total population. The subtraction from this of all of H.M. Forces regarded as emanating from England and Wales, wherever stationed, gives the new civilian population estimate. The addition of non-civilians (whether H.M. Forces or Allied Forces) actually stationed in England and Wales gives the new home population estimate. A minor difficulty in equating the difference between two total population estimates minus the net result of subtracting births from deaths with the precise figure for net migration during the period arises from the fact that provisional figures for births are used at the time population estimates are necessarily made, whereas published figures are usually of actual occurrences. Discrepancies between provisional birth figures and final occurrences are generally allowed for in the estimates for the following year.

For mid-1961 to mid-1970, population estimates, revised in the light of the final results of the 1971 Census, are given in this volume and have been used in the calculation of Tables A3(b), D1, D2, H1, H2, P2, Z and EE(b).

4. Births and birth rates

The births recorded and analysed for England and Wales for periods from 1939 onwards are those which occurred during the period.

Before 1972 births and maternities were assigned to the area of the mother's usual residence if that was within England and Wales; if not, to the area of occurrence. From 1 January 1972 a birth to a mother whose usual residence is outside England and Wales is assigned to the country of usual residence. These births are included in total figures for England and Wales but excluded from any sub-divisions of England and Wales. (Tables E, GG, Appendices B6, C2 and C3).

National crude birth rates shown in Tables D1 and D2 are calculated by relating birth occurrences (registrations before 1939) to the population of persons, all ages. Home population has been used in all years except 1915 to 1920 and 1940 to 1950 when total population was used. National birth rates per 1,000 women of childbearing ages (from 15 to 44 years of age) are based on total population throughout. The rates in Table E are calculated from birth occurrences and home populations (see note 3 above).

5. Deaths and death rates

The deaths recorded (Tables E and SS) are the total registered (including non-civilians) in the calendar period, the time lag between the date of occurrence and the date of registration being usually only a day or two. In general, deaths are assigned to the area of usual residence of the deceased. In the case of deaths where the usual residence of the deceased was not within England and Wales the method of assignment has been changed: before 1 January 1972 these deaths were assigned to the place of occurrence, but since that date they have been assigned to the country of usual residence of the deceased. Accommodation provided under Parts III or IV of the National Assistance Act, 1948, is regarded as the place of residence of persons dying there. Before 1 January 1958 chronic sick and psychiatric hospitals were similarly treated for this purpose but from that date the method of classification was modified, the main change being that a death in such a hospital is now assigned to the area of occurrence only if the deceased has been there six months or more. If the deceased had been there less than six months the death is transferred to the area of previous usual residence.

In some small areas the numbers of deaths may also have been appreciably affected by the opening, closing or change of use of certain institutions, so that figures may not be comparable with those of earlier years.

In Table E the crude death rates are calculated from total deaths and home populations (see note 3 above). The infant mortality rates are based on the live births occurring in the year, and the perinatal mortality rates are calculated from the numbers of infant deaths under one week, plus the numbers of stillbirths, per thousand total live and stillbirths.

6. Area Comparability factors

(a) Births

The crude birth rates for local areas in Table E (col. 8) may not be comparable one with another because the populations on which they are based may contain different proportions of women of child-bearing ages. In order to eliminate differences between local birth rates due to this cause a standardising factor, termed an Area Comparability Factor, is calculated. The product of the crude birth rate and this Area Comparability Factor (col. 9 of Table E) is a rate which makes allowance for this influence. The ratio of this adjusted rate for England and Wales as a whole is shown in col. 10 of Table E.

(b) Deaths

The crude death rates for local areas in Table E (col. 14) may not be comparable one with another. In the first place, the population on which they are based may have widely differing structures by sex and age. In order to eliminate differences between local death rates due to this cause a standardising factor, termed an Area Comparability Factor, is calculated. In the second place the populations on which the crude death rates are based may include a disproportionate number of invalids if there are certain types of hospitals in the area. In order to eliminate this difference the Area Comparability Factors are adjusted so that they have the effect of apportioning the deaths and the populations in chronic sick and psychiatric hospitals over all areas of the country according to their non-institutional populations. The product of the crude death rate and this Area Comparability Factor (col. 15 in Table E) is a rate which makes allowance for these two influences. The ratio of this adjusted rate to the rate for England and Wales as a whole is shown in col. 16 of Table E.

7. Fertility Analyses

All the tables that appear in the Fertility Analyses are based upon occurrences with the exception of Table SS which is based upon registrations.

The term 'maternity' in these tables is used to denote a pregnancy which has terminated in the birth of one or more live or still born children, and the term 'paternity' a legitimate pregnancy of the man's wife which has terminated in the birth of one or more live or still born children. The maternity record differs from the birth record in that multiple births from a single pregnancy are counted as one maternity, while for the birth record each child born is reckoned as a separate unit.

The definition of a stillborn child is given in Section 41 of the Births and Deaths Registration Act, 1953, as follows: 'a child which has issued forth from its mother after the twenty eighth week of pregnancy and which did not at any time after being completely expelled from the mother breathe or show any other signs of life'.

Under the Population (Statistics) Act, 1960, which came into operation on 1 January 1961, the age of the child's father is required where his name is entered in the register, i.e. where the entry is that of a legitimate birth or of an illegitimate birth registered on the joint information of the parents. The analysis of illegitimate births by father's age in Table AA(b), being restricted to those births registered jointly by the parents is therefore incomplete and may be misrepresentative.

The treatment of 'not stated' cases is explained in note 12.

8. Divorces

The figures in Table O1 have been obtained from the Lord Chancellor's Department. Tables P1 to P7 have been compiled from the records of the Divorce Registry, controlled to the total given by Table O1.

9. Register of electors

Table U1, compiled from returns received from Electoral Registration Officers shows the numbers of parliamentary electors on the February 1973 Register for each Parliamentary constituency. The number of votes cast at by-elections held on the February 1973 Register have been supplied by the Home Office. The area of land, and inland water, in 1971 of each Parliamentary constituency has been obtained from the Ordnance Survey Department.

Tables U2 and U3 are derived from Table U1 for the current and preceding years, so far as they relate to parliamentary electors.

Table V1 which shows the number of local government electors, the total number of councillors on each council, and an analysis of local elections held in 1973, is compiled from returns received from clerks to local councils.

10. International migration

Tables S1, S2, S3 and S4 show various data derived mainly from the International Passenger Survey, which is conducted by the Office of Population Censuses and Surveys for the Department of Trade and which obtains information about overseas migration, tourism and the contribution of 'travel' expenditure to the balance of payments. This survey is a stratified random sample of passengers entering and leaving the country on all the principal air and sea routes, excluding certain non-approved ports (e.g. Tyne sea ports, which mainly affect Scandinavia, and United States air bases in East Anglia) as well as traffic with the Irish Republic. The term 'migration' here relates to passengers whose declared intention is to reside in the United Kingdom for at least a year, having lived overseas for at least a year for an immigrant, and vice versa for an emigrant.

On the long air routes 4 per cent of passengers at London Airport and up to 7 per cent at Prestwick are interviewed; one per cent of the outgoing and a third of one per cent of the incoming short air passengers are also interviewed at London Airport. At other airports the percentage sampled varies between a third of one per cent and 2 per cent according to the time and airport concerned. The sample weights are adjusted for known traffic densities, and appropriate allowance made for traffic not covered. In a two stage sample, cross-channel boats are sampled in proportion to the weight of traffic they are expected to handle, and a pre-determined number of passengers is interviewed on each selected boat. On the long sea routes, every liner or other ship having more than 200 passengers arriving, or more than 100 passengers departing, is covered. One ship in every two of other ships carrying more than 12 passengers on these routes is covered. Nearly 7 per cent of the outgoing and 4 per cent of the incoming passengers are sampled. A larger proportion of passengers leaving this country on the long sea and air routes is sampled in order to provide information about emigration from this country.

The totals obtained by grossing up the sample statistics are subject to sampling error which make the estimates for small categories unreliable.

11. International tables

Information for the completion of Tables W, X, Y and Z has been obtained from United Nations publications and from official sources.

12. 'Not stated' cases

Where a particular item of information on a record is not known or not stated at registration a specific value is assigned during the early stages of computer processing, as follows:

Births

Births for which the age of mother, age of father, year of marriage or the number of previous children is not stated are assigned the value of the appropriate item from the last case with otherwise similar characteristics to be processed. Notes of the number of cases dealt with in this way are included in the relevant tables.

Marriages

Marriages with the age of one of the parties not stated are assigned a value for that age based upon the other party's stated age, adjusted according to the combined marital condition of the parties. Where the ages of both parties are not stated, the values assigned are those appearing on the last of a sub-sample of previous cases with the same combined marital condition.

Divorces

Not stated age at marriage is assigned a value in a manner similar to marriages. Present age is estimated from age at marriage.

13. Changes in boundaries

Areas which have undergone a change in boundary during the year are identified in Table E by a dagger †: for any such area the statistics shown for the current year represent the events assigned to the area within the boundaries as they existed at the date of the event, and the population given in Table E (col. 2), which is used for the calculation of crude birth and death rates, is a weighted average of the mid-year populations of the area as constituted before and after the change. This population figure may therefore differ from any given in Table A4 for the same region, conurbation, etc., which relates to the area as constituted at mid year. No areas were newly created or abolished during 1973. Details of boundary changes are given in Appendix A.

14. Indication of reliability

Rates given as 0 indicate that the actual rate is less than half of a unit. A dash (-) in any cell indicates that there were no events. Where a cell has been left blank no denominator is available. Rates calculated from less than 20 events are distinguished by italic type as a warning to the user that the smallness of the experience may effect their reliability as a measure. The symbol (..) signifies not available or not appropriate.

Numbers

If d represents the deaths in an area and p the population in that area, then, if d/p is small, the standard error (s.e.) of d is approximately \sqrt{d} assuming that the deaths are independent of one another. Clearly, the larger the number of deaths the smaller will be the proportionate variability. A deviation either way of twice the s.e. may be expected about once in 20 times. Using this criterion one might expect towns each averaging 20 deaths per year to yield in the same year numbers ranging between 11 and 29 without such differences having any statistical significance. Alternatively it could be said that if 20 deaths were recorded for a town, this number would have a 95 per cent confidence interval of approximately +9, there being a 95 per cent chance that the underlying mortality is represented by a number of deaths within this interval.

If d is thought to be an extreme variation it would be more reliable to use as the standard error not \sqrt{d} but $\sqrt{d'}$ where d' is the number of deaths expected if some standard rate (e.g. the national rate) were applied.

Rates

The appropriate standard error of a death rate when d represents the number of deaths and p the population is where m is the death rate. The difference between two local death rates m_1 and m_2 can be regarded as significant only if it amounts to more than twice the standard error of the difference, viz.

$$\frac{\sqrt{d}}{p} \text{ or } \frac{m}{\sqrt{d}}$$

$$2 \sqrt{\left(\frac{m_1^2}{d_1} + \frac{m_2^2}{d_2} \right)}$$

Before comparisons are made, other known sources of variation (such as differences in the sex and age composition of the population) must be removed. If C is the local death Area Comparability Factor, then mC is to be compared with m' , the national death rate. The s.e. of mC is

is to be compared with m' . As already indicated, m' can be used instead of m in the calculation of the s.e.; m' has the advantage of itself having only a small sampling error.

These aggregates comprise (a) the six conurbations combined, (b) the aggregates of urban local authority areas outside the conurbations in three groups according to the size of their resident population at the 1961 Census and (c) the aggregate of rural local authority areas outside the conurbations. Urban areas include boroughs and urban districts as defined by the Local Government Acts, and rural areas are rural districts as similarly defined.

21. Hospital regions (as constituted before 1 April 1974)

The hospital regions presented in this volume consist of aggregations of entire local authority areas. They are identical with the areas of the regional hospital boards except where boundaries of the latter divide local authority areas. Any such divided local authority area is allocated to the hospital region containing the greater proportion of the population.

Estimates of the population of hospital regions, in which the figures for the parts of divided areas have been allocated to the regions in which they are situated, have been published in the Registrar General's Quarterly Return (see return No. 504 for the fourth quarter of 1974).

TABLE A5. Total population, projections from 30 June 1973, by sex and age

England and Wales

These projections have been prepared by the Government Actuary's Department in consultation with the Office of Population Censuses and Surveys

Basis: The Registrar General's estimate of the mid-1973 Total population.

Assumptions (1973 Revision)

Deaths: Death rates at the outset are based on recent experience. At ages under 60 for males and under 70 for females death rates are assumed to decline over the period of the projection until, after forty years, they are three-quarters of present rates. Above these ages the assumed improvement becomes proportionately smaller as age advances until no improvement is assumed at ages over 90. At each age between 60 and 90 the assumed proportionate improvement is smaller for males than for females.

Births: The numbers of births implied in the projections are 650,000 in the year from mid-1973 to mid-1974, 638,000 in 1974/5 and 635,000 in 1975/6 followed by a gradual increase, of both births and fertility rates, until the year 1983/4, when the level of fertility assumed would, if maintained, imply an average of 2.2 children per woman and the number of births reaches 793,000. Thereafter age-specific fertility rates are held constant so that births fluctuate in line with the numbers of young women, reaching a peak of 834,000 in 1989/90, falling to 738,000 in 2001/02 and rising again to 829,000 in the last year of the projection, 2012/13. A constant sex ratio of 106 boys to 100 girls is assumed.

Migration: For the year mid-1973 to mid-1974, allowance has been made for a net inward migration of 9,000. Thereafter it is assumed that there will be a net outward migration, commencing at 4,000 in the year 1974/5 and rising gradually to reach 27,000 a year from mid-1978 onwards. These figures include migration to and from other parts of the United Kingdom as well as migration to and from all countries overseas.

Notes.

1. These projections are constrained to the Government Actuary's Department 1973-based National Projections, after adjustment to 'home' population (for definition see Explanatory Note 3 page ix). National population projections are published in 'Population Projections No.4 1973-2013' HMSO.
2. The New Standard Regions in this table are those which came into effect on 1 April 1974. Their New County composition is given below. A full definition of these new areas is given in 'Reorganisation of Local Government Areas: Correlation of New and Old Areas' HMSO.
3. The Outer Metropolitan Area has yet to be re-defined and the figures in the table relate to the area as defined in Explanatory Note 17 page xv. The Outer South East area is the remainder of the New South East Region after excluding the Greater London Area and the Outer Metropolitan Area.
4. The estimated populations for the base year (1973) are those published in Appendix J of the Registrar General's Quarterly Return No. 502.
5. These projections supersede (but cannot be compared with) projections for pre-1974 regions published in earlier Statistical Reviews.
6. For a commentary on these projections and a description of the migration assumptions see 'Regional Population Projections, Mid-1973 Based' HMSO.

The constitution of Wales and of the New Standard Regions of England in terms of New Counties is as follows:

TABLE B1. Abridged life table, 1973

England and Wales

Apart from its use as a basis for calculations of probabilities of death or survival, the life table represents one useful way of providing summary indices of mortality free from peculiarities in the sex and age structure of the population. These summary indices, whether it be the number surviving out of the specified number of births or the expectation of life beyond a specified age, are sex and age standardised. They summarise the individual age death rates for each sex. For this particular purpose the following life table has been constructed from the mortality experience of 1973. Though the functions are summary indices of the mortality of a particular year they will by the same token be sensitive to fluctuations in the mortality from one year to another as a result of changes in the weather conditions, irregular incidence of epidemics etc, and they are not reliable as a basis for calculations of the probabilities of survival over a period of years. Life Table functions for this use in such computations should be representative of the current level of mortality and should therefore be based on more than one year's experience. For this latter purpose another life table has been constructed based on the three years 1971-1973, a larger body of data more representative of the general mortality of recent years; this has been published in the Registrar General's Quarterly Return for the March Quarter, 1974 No. 501.

The column headed l_x shows, for each sex, the numbers who would survive to exactly age x out of 10,000 born who were subject throughout their lives to the recorded age death rates of the period.

Column $o_e x$ is the 'expectation of life', that is, the average future lifetime which would be lived by persons aged exactly x , if likewise subject to those death rates.

* Natural increase is excess of births over deaths. Gross reproduction rate is the rate at which the female population is replacing itself. Net reproduction rate as GRR but taking mortality into account.
† England and Wales - GRR and NRR for years 1881-1885, 1891-1895, 1901-1906 and 1911-1915 are based on three year averages of numbers of births related to Census populations of 1881, 1891, 1901, 1911 to give estimated age-specific fertility rates. For years 1916-1920 and 1921-1925 are five year averages where NRR was originally calculated on interpolated L_x (survival rates) values.
‡ Births: England and Wales - occurrences since 1939, registrations prior to that. Scotland - registrations. Great Britain equals their sum.
 Great Britain - GRR and NRR have been calculated by weighting together England and Wales and Scotland in the proportions 9:1.

TABLE S4. Gross migrant movements into and out from the United Kingdom, mid-1965/1966 to mid-1972/1973

Note 1. This table relates to civilian migrant movement as an element in change in the 'total' population of the United Kingdom. Deployment of H.M. and Allied Forces between this country and overseas is excluded. Also excluded is a small number of wives and dependants of U.S. Forces entering or leaving the United Kingdom each year by 'non-approved' ports.

2. A migrant is defined as a passenger with a minimum of twelve month's residence in his or her last country of residence who remains for at least a year in the receiving country. The figures of both inward and outward movements therefore cover a number of people spending a limited time in or out of the United Kingdom, e.g. Students, doctors, teachers, as well as those moving in or out for permanent settlement.

* The estimates for the Alien, Commonwealth and British (U.K.) streams relate to citizenship and are based on the International Passenger Survey, a sample survey of passenger movements between the United Kingdom and overseas countries, but excluding traffic with the Irish Republic, adjusted in the light of other available information such as the statistics collected under the Commonwealth Immigrants Acts.

† Net immigration due to direct traffic with the Irish Republic may have averaged some 10,000 persons per annum during the 1967-1971 intercensal period.

‡ Including United Kingdom passport holders from East Africa from 1967.

§ Pakistan citizens are included in Other Commonwealth up to mid 1971 to mid 1972, but are in the Alien stream in mid 1972 to mid 1973.

* The number of adopted children usually exceeds the number of Adoption Orders because the High Court does not issue a separate Order for each child where an adopter adopts more than one child at the same time.
 † Provisional Adoption Orders, which were introduced on 1st April 1959 (see Adoption Act, 1958, section 53) are included in the total. These Orders confer authority on a person not domiciled in Great Britain to take a child out of this country for adoption.

TABLE U1. Parliamentary electors on the February 1973 Register, with number of votes cast at by-elections held thereon

England and Wales, county and borough constituencies

Note 1. The Register of Electors 1973 was prepared in respect of the qualifying date 10 October 1972, and came into force on 16 February 1973. The figures given relate to the constituencies described in the First Schedule to the Representation of the People Act 1949, or as the case may be, in orders in Council made under the House of Commons (Redistribution of Seats) Act, 1949. The figures given in columns 6, 7 and 8 relate to persons attaining the age of 18 years after 16 February 1973, and before 16 February 1974, and entitled to vote at elections held on or after their 18th birthday; they are not included in columns 3, 4 and 5.
 Note 2. Peers of the Realm (with certain exceptions) are not entitled to vote at Parliamentary Elections and their number is not included in this table.
 Note 3. In this table the symbol * is used to indicate constituencies in which by-elections have been held during the year, but where a constituency has been altered since the General Election 1970 the by-election will have been for the constituency as it was at that General Election. Details of the numbers of votes cast are shown at the end of the table.

TABLE QQ(d). Fertility rates by birth order: live births per women married once only by duration and calendar year of marriage and number of previous liveborn children

England and Wales

Notes. This table shows rates which are, in fact, probabilities that a married woman, at a given marriage duration, with n previous live born children would have the $(n + 1)$ th child during the course of the following year. The rates are obtained as follows:

Suppose the number of legitimate live births after n previous births at a given marriage duration in a given year is denoted by M , and the number of married women at that marriage duration in that year is denoted by W . Suppose further, the number of those among W married women who have had n children is denoted by $W(n)$. Then the birth order rate is given by

$$\frac{M}{W} \div \frac{W(n)}{W} = \frac{M}{W(n)}$$

There is a possible source of error in calculating these rates, which arises from the possibility of having more births of a given order taking place than there are women exposed to the risk of having births of that order. This can happen when some women have more than one maternity (resulting in live born children) in any one year and when there is a multiple maternity resulting in more than one live birth. The chance of this error occurring is less than 1 in 20.

Calculation of women at risk; For women married before 1961, the number at each parity was obtained from the 1961 Census results. For those married in 1961 and onwards, the number at each parity was determined by distributing the estimated total number of married women at duration 0 (obtained from Table NN) according to the proportions given in Table QQ(c).
