The World's Charter of Tea & Goodwill.

Oct 13th 1918.

The acceptance of Germany of President Wilson's terms will be welcomed by all good ~~men~~ & ~~women~~ & ~~men~~ & ~~women~~ among the allies. The struggle for the past few days will test the real power of the Allies & the Germans among the allied nations. The fact that the U.S.A. embraces the situation is some guarantee for the victory of the Allies. It is not yet for the full Supreme fulfillment yet I should fear the defect of Virtue: Perhaps a good die hard man satisfaction seems at hand.

Oct 28th

Apparently the Germans prevailed - even over President Wilson. To my mind there is an unnecessary hardness in his subsequent communications. It may be that the German Gov. will surrender unconditionally: the terms to be made will have to accept, if the Germans at once, will be first her endurance, they will break her or leave her into a secret Rebel against the world.

[Sis mother Katherin persuaded me to come & lunch with Barnes & himself ~~was~~ long way, in a large room in the Tom shade building with a meated lady ^{an innocuous female scientist} servant in attendance in an ante room. He himself was dictating to a Dictaphone when ~~we~~ Katherin & I came in. His face was ~~serious~~ & he looked ~~down~~ ^{downward} ~~at~~ ~~his~~ ~~feet~~ - man who was trying hard to crush things that he could not hold. We looked each other over to find traces of an old comradeship - he looks of labor. Barnes has no "side" ^{or inclination} & not much personal ~~thing~~ - he is just a middle ~~heart~~ & middle ~~head~~ ^{as I said} ~~man~~ whose ~~he~~ has not success & becoming a ~~liar~~ ~~worker~~. He would be ~~search~~ ^{he} ~~of~~ ~~his~~ makes him rather vacillating & dull.

 He is a member of the War Cabinet because he can come ~~and~~ in a workman's home & get into Parliament as a representative. Trade Unions, and so, in the times, Dukes & Marquises, however illustrious & grand, were in the big families & were not out of a simple naïve way and generally kind.

 He is like his permanent officials.

 contempt for his stupid Colliery.

"I am sorry, Charles J. Smyth, that you are having to deal with" I opened in friendly tones. "You mean that with that Labour Party is leaving me." The followed a flow of disjointed compliments against the President —
 "I don't mind Snowden — but he is dumb — always stalling you ^{the} work — pleasant enough when he meets you, but — interrupting to visit from your constancy or to defend you in your Union. As for Henderson he seems to have turned to Coventry. I might as well think opinion of Cardinal but maintain the Henderson he always a die spend towards his charges.

 — a loss in a difficult position trying to get the Party to be independent towards the Labor Committee which keeps the Labor Party independent of its coalition. "Why cannot we continue the coalition for another two years" as the Darrin pointedly "during the period of Reconstruction?"
 "If we go to the Labor Party which will lose all the benefits of the experience" By the way the Labor War Cabinet - Committee - meant to help the reform the opinion that the Labor Party ~~has~~ ^{is} ~~been~~ Lucy reports that there is a vehement opposition at the L.P. 24 as to whether they should convene the conference on Thursday to decide to back away from the either to leave it for a time to July 10th 40 (unsubstantiated)

The Danish journal election of 1918 seems to be curious analogous to the German Federal election of 1871. Lloyd George like Bismarck appealed to a enormous enlarged electorate after a Romantic National Victory and he appealed for unconditional support for a Parliament what was called a Provisional. In both cases it most peculiar fact that when he used a Liberal Party which during the war he faithfully supported the "victorious effort" with cases then had been a "Provisional party" but he opposed the war. Bismarck's election swept away the former Liberal Party a shift to Social Democratic party or a career which ends the GOVERNMENT BILL CRITICIZED.

The Government proposal for creating a Ministry of Ways and Communications was condemned yesterday at the quarterly meeting of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, which passed a resolution expressing great concern at the powers sought in the Bill, by which all means of transport are transferred to the control of one man, and urging that before such a measure is agreed to full time should be allowed for its consideration, having regard to the fact that it deals with what is of most vital importance to the future trade of the country and successful reconstruction.

The CHAIRMAN OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CHAMBER, Mr. G. A. Moore, described the Bill as revolution by Act of Parliament. It meant, he said, that we were to be under a bureaucracy pure and simple. The man was not born who could possibly deal with all the matters contained in the Bill, by the provisions of which they could get through nationalization of the railways without discussion in the House of Commons. It was practically a continuation of D.O. [unclear] wanted to get rid of.

are some of his statements :—

For the first time in the history of England it is the privilege of the police and prison officers to be represented in the industrial arena.

In the past Labour has had the right to look at the policeman with a not too friendly eye, owing to deliberate and persistent official mis-direction in time of Labour troubles.

It is the police and prison services' urgent desire to cooperate with all and sundry, whether Labour or the Government; but the day when the Government can use the police forces as a tool against any other section of the nation is past.

The causes of unrest in the police and prison services are many. They include the closed door, delay in dealing with the just needs of the men, mis-guided and prejudiced official control, an incomplete attempt by the Government to provide so-called representation, disciplinary regulations which rob policemen of the ordinary rights of citizenship, and wilful and persistent persecution of those who attempt to secure those rights.

Surprise was felt at the time that Mr Marston and his colleagues should have been given invitations, presumably from the Government, Labour, to not the sweetest tempered of men & has a certain narrowness of outlook. But he is a good administrator - an initiator of both ideas & plans and a man who will concentrate ^{his energies} on the school. One relation with him is pleasant & friendly - his views are slightly anti-lecturer but pro collectivist - and he is an innovator not a conventional minded man. He is also "well seen" by Government Departments & that is being used more & more for the training of labour servants. There are here two very no elements; Morrison, tho' an able & fervent, one having a great deal of no intellectual distinction & a tendency; Bosley is far too slight in character as an intellectual & is also developing all the rudiments of the professional know-how, the result the manual workers demand for a measure of equality of circumstances. In his heart he believes in a "caste" system with the University ^{hampers} ~~hampers~~ & the manual workers kept down to ^{nothing more than} ~~the~~ a second ^{but not the same} job. I think he would say that the manual workers are so numerous that they must be content with this ^{minimum} subsistence; the know-how being few & of that importance will be treated as an aristocracy.

An unpleasant episode for Macdonald!
 About 3 weeks ago "Paris" appeared in the Press, stating this inspired Paris had then appeared in 5 Times

Colonel House & his wife spent an evening with us last week. The W.
