Dear Miss Paines

Deeply regretted Mrs P.

Thouwen did not turn up to speak at my At Home, for I wanted to hear more especially about the attitude of (feminine) Labour towards the vote. Can you send me any literature about it? I know Franking Women think it will improve their condition of work, & I am anxious to know why. At present, then asked by opponents how I make this out, I am at a disad-vantage & cannot say how. ^{For} I think that "Trade Unions" only (or chiefly) depend themselves for pay & conditions of work, & women's Trade Unions are conspicuous by their absence, or are a dead failure. So how a vote will help the working women without Trade Unions I fail to see. I was particularly vexed yesterday, I could not see the point I raise, as I met at a luncheon party, the Britain of the Standard she declared, "I do not have no effect on ^{in little} the Cardigans of Women's Labour to lower pay than men. Personally

I can't either know if can be, if they can't and won't shake.

The Yae. Mrs. Arthur Lyttelton's letter today says this point too. Well

⁴
I can settle this point, I feel at a great disadvantage in argument. So, if you can help me, or let someone else help me, who will fix this point, I shall be greatly obliged.

Do you want me to do anything?

Yours sincerely

J. Dale
