Dear Miss Strachey

I must write to thank you for your friendly and also very flattering letter. Looking back to our work together, I can sincerely say that there have been few questions in my public life that have given me more interest and pleasure than the many connected with the position of women in the first quarter of the century. Any success that Jack Hills and I may have had was almost entirely due to the effective and very intelligent support that we always received from you and your colleagues.

With all good wishes,
Yours sincerely
Templewood
