My dear Mr. Fawcett
I have learned
with the greatest pleasure of your return - in good health after all your experiences & hardships. And your preference has apparently done the impossible & pleased everyone
It is a great triumph for it shows you have

at Portsmouth there are during the winter weekly lectures for the (so called) educated young married women & girls, on social
subjects, art, music,

literature & the higher life generally. We propose next winter
to have for this last section a series of lectures on saints &
great men & women
Savonarola, Decty, S
Francis ^{S. Teresa} & so on.

Among them we want Joan of Arc &)

would consent to give it. It would have to have a certain ethical turn about it as well as to be historical. Would you mind this. These particular lectures take place on the first-

Thursday in each month at least I think that will be decided. If you could come would any one time be better than another for you.

Do you really wish
the D. W. J. Smith bill to pass? Miss Blackham

& I are preparing a protest from women on the ground that the present law is logical, & that the bill creates inequality between husband & wife. We have formed a committee to back it.

I do wish we could have your name. But
