Dear Lady Constance

I only got - your letter this morning on arriving here. Since writing you will have had all the news of my release when I see you I will tell you how I spent my Easter holiday. I am now feeling ready for the future. I hope you will soon be well again & that you will take better care of yourself in future. I go to Holmwood this afternoon for the week end & am looking forward to long talks with my Co-Conspirators. Much as I should wish the absent-one to be there also I am glad that she is free to direct the ship even from a distance as she is doing in "I for D". What a fine article this is this week!

affectionately
