

April 27th 1914.

131, HARLEY STREET,

W.

TEL: PADD. 2953.

AL/1616

Dear Dr. Wilson,

Your kind note, received this morning, makes up for all the work I have put into the translation. Please send back any part of it which you think
can be improved; I should like to try and do so. As long as Chapters 5, 6 & 7 are all right, I do not mind.

The rest of the translation is packed up & will be sent off at the same time as this note.

I almost think the
"Summary of contents"
was the most difficult part to do, because of the cumbersome wording. There is scarcely

A2/1616 cont

131, HARLEY STREET,

W.

TEL: PADD. 2953.

a page in that book
written in simple,
straight forward language
- that has been the great difficulty in reading it into readable English.
Of course, I think you suggested about using the word "army" very good, and I had done so in my earlier attempts. The only objection but was that in the public mind - as the word army applies to something which is honourable.

You will of course make any alteration you
see fit.

Yours truly
Hedda Alsterin