Will you see Blackheath envelope I have. no other

Tenderest regards to your
dear mother

Dear Miss Billington

Just another note
of encouragement

Let not your heart be troubled, your conscience is quite clear & pure,
"then why be fearful
of the man proof Old Bailey"

It will be they who will be weighed in the balance & found wanting. Give them warning of the Hand writing on the Wall
"Cheer up" you have the Big Spirit of comradeship united with
yours of the W.S.P.U.
& that Women are working out their own Salvation since men have refused to help us

& it will cheer you to know that my working man friend is getting a petition up amongst his fellow workers,
& the Home Secretary
that there shall be no forcible feeding on your delicate little body, when your sentence is passed, you are not suffering in vain
it's an ill world that blows no good. I am making sympathizers
on your behalf

I had a conversation with two more ladies yesterday they can grasp it when it is explained properly before them

Well my dear, Good bye, for the present
again I say

Let not your heart
be troubled

Yours very affectionately

We shall concentrate our minds that you may be able to stare
the whole court in the face
