My dear Mr. Hawcett

I have found 3 papers which I fancy you may not have - I have also sent over last circular which you may not have seen one of the papers I should like back as it is my best copy -

I think it is well to make a great point of the fact that the students have the same advantages & the same examinations as the men

With regard to lecture there are a few exceptions as sometimes there is not space enough in the lecture room for both men & women - but this difficulty is disappearing.

I think the health of the students improves & that they become more vigorous & brighter. The increase of interests & the varied life brought about by new work & new companions tend to this result -

At the same time there is constant need for watchfulness & struggle about improvement.
I hope I may see you at the next General Meeting.
We are full of plans just now.

I wish I could come up to town today but it is very difficult to leave the college - I am glad the day is bright - It must be a bracing day for you but there cannot be much satisfaction in the public recognition of Mr Jewell's noble life & work - & one feels it so good for the world at large that this recognition should be made.

yours affectionately

Anne Helmholtz
