Dear Lady Betty,

I have written to Mrs Fawcett to defend my sex against her unjust accusation that we men are unreasonable. Personally, I think myself one of the most reasonable of men.

Seriously, I think that some kind of manifestation is necessary.

I am going to read Mrs Fawcett's letter at the Prime Minister to-morrow.

Yours sincerely,

Northcliffe

Christmas Day 1916.

This will make you smile! I was asked in Woking yesterday if I had h^d the last wk. pub. crisis.
"Northcliffe has sent for the King!"
