32 ADDISON ROAD,

KENSINGTON, W.

Feb. 4/09.

My dear Mrs Fawcett.

Your letter reached me at dinner-pool, when I was busy talking Suffrage & Traveller's aid, to the rank & ~~beauty~~ beauty of the place. I shall certainly see that valentine reaches as quite it is really good, & his literary instinct will appreciate it. I am going to Blackheath today, to Reading tomorrow, & these are the reasons of a not appearing at committees.
I took the 8.45 on Monday, & am

John in 11.30.

I will turn over in my mind the conservative speakers of the Albert Hall. I can only think of Wymsham, whose rather flowery rhetoric wd suit an audience I think. There has as yet been no pressure put upon the conservatives to speak of, or even think of us!

Robert Cecil might, but he has too much a life of hot water, just now, to make hi add to his heavy subjects.

* not a conservative I forgot!
I wish ^{*} Lord Bruford, had a better character, he speaks so very well. What about Lord Lytton?
You will find nearly all the conservatives, went so farther than rate paying women, wh. ^{is} ~~are~~ not practical politics.

I wish Selborne were back.
There is no enthusiasm for us among conservatives, & great desire, to watch the jumping cat.

I wish Salisbury had notice.
