Dear Mr. Park,

I was delighted to get your Christmas message, and to see from the enclosed that you were still carrying on your good work. The Feminist movement seems moribund here at the moment. The newspapers do not keep it much, if at all, and its leaders do not have an easy time. However there is eternal vigilance, and while that is exhibited it shows the spirit of things is still alive.

Our paper has made wonderful progress in every state (with the exception of Western Australia which we have not penetrated yet.) and in Tasmania. It has meant a lot of hard work, but the staff has been increased within recent weeks, so the coming year should be an easier one.

Kindest regards & all good wishes

Jean Williamson
