week. I would accept gladly but that I have already asked my Grandparents to receive me and I think they are pretty sure to be able & willing to do so. I wrote to them yesterday so if their room should be already engaged I shall know tomorrow & will then write again to you.

Do not trouble about going to Berkeley it unless you have to nap it. There is no occasion to decide at once about Jane's bedroom.
I believe she would be more com-fortable in the smaller one, but we can see it together while I am in London. Which day - Tuesday or Wed. do you propose going to Sheffield? & are you invited by anyone yet? We rather think of stopping at Rugby on our way, to see Sam but we have not looked at Bradshaw yet to see how this will do, nor do we know when, exactly, we should get to Sheffield. I am afraid it is a very long & expensive journey from Sheffield to Gasmore. It looks like 150 miles on the map.

Still I should like to go so much that I think I will be retracing for once. Perhaps we might go 3rd class? We are having a large pic-nic today, so I ought not to write much longer. I have a charming room facing the sea in an empty house for my study during the mornings of this next week. Studies out of the house are such blessings when one wants to get this work quickly. I am very pleased about the same, tho' I try to avoid im-
