I enclose papers re the Pastel Society. Will you select two works you think appropriate and tell Bradley & Co. to call for them. You will see they are not for exhibition but for approval.
As we don't know what pastels are on hand we leave the choice to you.
I suppose the Exhibition takes place later.

I enclose also two photographs of

M. G. absolutely insulted on our putting a he down shawl over the baby's charming face. For some reason or other she said it was show up its complexion better!
One of the photos looks to me exactly like an ancient one of Cate &
Blivie or Hanna's
Am. Do you remember it?

Janice which (naturally) do not do her justice but still are rather charming.
They were taken sometime ago by Albert and she has grown considerably since then. She is very well indeed, sleeps and grows fat and hardly ever cries. She can say "gr-gr" most successfully and laughs heartily when Simon whistles and I put out my tongue.

The season is over here, the automobiles departed, the hotels and shops shutting up, the visitors fleeing. We are shortly going to ~~right~~^{of the P. L. M.} write to M. noblemaire, to ask for a kind repetition of former favours. It remains to be seen with what success.

The Guineyos are going off soon, Aunt Lell also talks of going. She is now alone, Uncle George having left yesterday. I hope she will take some one to travel with her as I don't think she ought to go by herself. She talks of going to Baden Baden to visit I do, but who knows? I have not left "the grounds" since last November and I shall be very glad to have a change, and see some fresh surroundings - even though ours are particularly lovely just now. In spite of my being perfectly well, I can't go out to pay the smallest visit as I have to be at Janie's beck (a pun!) every two hours and there is no time.

I hope you are considering the Scotch question and will let us have the family's ideas soon. Simon is very keen on going and we are prepared to expend capital in the hope of its bringing in a profitable return, in the shape of saleable pastels. ~~W~~

Was mama in the Ladies Gallery the day they were ejected?

I am pining and pining to see and embrace you all.

Mama said she might have room for some of us at
